Farm Bureau Picnic August 28 At Forsyth Park

One of the Features Will Be a Contest Between the Horseshoe Pitching Teams of Gardiner and Marlborough—Directors Held Meeting.

The Farm Bureau directors met Tuesday in the Farm Bureau office on John street. The following were present, Millard Davis, Fred DuBois, L. B. Davis, George Saile and Mr. Tucker. The meeting was opened by President Millard Davis and the routine business was soon completed.

A comparison of membership, with other counties in the state showed that Ulster county at present, ranks third. At this early date Ulster county is now only one member behind the highest number ever secured while the present membership fee was in force.

Mr. Hambleton, the special field assistant, who takes care of the spray service, gave his report. The unsettled and cold weather made spraying very difficult. Leaves are slow in developing and the continued bad weather made it almost impossible to apply spray at the proper time, for best control of insects and other pests.

A report in the legume campaign made by Manager Kurdt of farm visits last week with Professor Barron, revealed serious winter damage to many seedings. The visits in connection with the legume campaign will be completed during the remainder of this week and next week. Possible catch crops and other information, on this damage, will be given out very shortly.

Other things brought up and discussed were dairy improvement association, vigilance service and farm bureau news.

The meeting was then adjourned to the Home Bureau Office where a joint meeting with the directors of the Home Bureau was held for a discussion of the annual picnic. The picnic this year will be held on August 28th at Forsyth Park. A committee, consisting of three men and three women, was appointed to make arrangements and conduct this picnic. One of the features will be a contest between the horseshoe pitching teams of Gardiner and Marlborough to decide which shall be the permanent holder of the Chamber of Commerce Cup. Each of the two communities having won two contests. The winner this year will be awarded the cup. A tournament will probably be held prior to the picnic to decide who shall represent Ulster county at the State Fair.

OPEN PLUMBING BIDS FOR COUNTY GARAGE

Bids were opened on Wednesday by the committee on purchase and maintenance of highway machinery and equipment of the board of supervisors for installing plumbing and heating in the Ulster county garage on Gage street Kingston. No awards were made but the bids which follow will be submitted to the board of supervisors to be held shortly. The bids were as follows:

John H. Matthews, $3,970; B. Loughran Company, $4,048; Loughran & Caunitz, $4,500; Wieber & Walter, $4,729; Brown & Dressel, $4,777; Edward Cusack, $4,976; Edward Coffey, $5,134.70; William Golden, $5,600.

MGR. JOHN J. McLOUGHLIN DEAD OF PNEUMONIA

Atlantic City, N. J., May 3 (AP).—The Rt. Rev. Mgr. John J. McLoughlin, pastor of the St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Binghamton, N. Y., and dean of the Binghamton deanery of the diocese of Syracuse, died at the Hotel Traymore here this morning.

Mgr. McLoughlin's death was sudden. He was stricken with pneumonia about a week ago and for several days his condition caused much anxiety. Yesterday, however, he showed decided improvement. During the night he suffered a relapse and lost strength rapidly until the end came at 9:30 o'clock.

Aviator Seeks New Record.

Chickasha, Okla., May 3 (AP).—Joe Hart, local aviator, took off alone in his monoplane "Chickasha" here this morning in an effort to set a new world's record for sustained flight. Despite a cross wind, he managed to take off before the heavily loaded plane had traversed a mile of the runway. His official starting time was announced as 5:43:45.

Connecticut For Smith.

Hartford, Conn. May 3 (AP).—The Democracy of Connecticut through its state convention today endorsed the candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York for the Presidency by adopting a resolution pledging its delegation to vote for him until the governor himself shall release it from the obligation.

Fire On Manor Avenue.

The fire department was called out late Wednesday afternoon for a fire at the residence of C. R. Bangs on Manor avenue. The fire had started on the outside of the building and was caused, according to the fire department, by defective wiring. The damage to the house was not heavy.

Emir Arrives at Moscow.

Moscow, May 3 (AP).—Amanullah Khan, Emir of Afghanistan, arrived here this morning from Warsaw with his retinue. He was met last night at the frontier by representatives of the Soviet.

Daughters Quit as Blacklist Protest

Eleven Prominent Members of New Haven D. A. R. Resign Because They Believe Blacklist Policy Would Crush American Initiative.

New Haven, Conn., May 23 (AP).—Eleven prominent members of two local chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution had resigned today in protest of the blacklisting of speakers.

The organization's blacklist, upon which appears the names of many prominent persons in the country who are barred as unpatriotic from addressing D. A. R. meetings, recently received endorsement of the national organization.

Mrs. William Lyon Phelps, wife of the Yale professor, and Mrs. Josepha Whitney, widow of the late Judge Edwin B. Whitney, two of those who resigned, issued a statement to the national officers in behalf of the protesting women in which they asserted they could no longer continue membership in an organization which "accepts a policy striking at the roots of American freedom and contrary to the spirit of the first amendment of the Constitution which it has sworn to uphold."

"The United States has grown in power and influence for 150 years by carrying out the principles of our fathers, of free discussions of public questions," the statement said.

"For this the present policies of the Daughters of the American Revolution substitute a face-about to tyrannical suppression of all who differ with the present national officers on the questions of the day.

"If such action should succeed the result would be to crush the initiative and creative energy of the American people."

Seven Cent Fare For New York

Federal Court Holds Five Cent Fare Is Confiscatory—Mayor Walker To Seek Re-election On Five Cent Fare Platform—Hylan May Run.

New York, May 3 (AP)—The principle of the 5-cent fare, maintained since the start of rapid transit in New York city and long a political issue, today stood denied by federal court decision.

The five-cent fare is a provision of the contract under which there is private operation of city-owned subways. Efforts of companies since the war to gain an increased fare because of higher prices of labor and materials hitherto have failed.

Proponents of the increased fare have contended that New York is the lone large city in which a five cent fare is charged, other cities having granted increases.

The decision granting the Interborough Rapid Transit Company permission to raise the fare on its subway and elevated lines to 7 cents also touched off the 1929 municipal campaign.

Mayor James J. Walker, who previously had said he would not be a candidate for reelection, announced his candidacy on a 5-cent fare platform.

"Even a nickel is far too much to pay upon the almost seatless subway," the mayor said in his statement.

Hylan Says Tammany Is Betrayer.

Former Mayor John F. Hylan, who in the eight years he occupied office was a strong defender of the five cent fare, issued a statement charging Mayor Walker and Tammany Hall with "Betraying the people."

"What I said in the primary campaign has come true," he said. "I charged that the new powers of Tammany Hall and their candidate for mayor, James J. Walker, intended to betray the people and they have now betrayed them."

In some circles this was taken as an indication that Mr. Hylan, who is a Democrat, might again seek the mayoralty either as an independent Democrat candidate or as a fusion candidate supported by the Republicans.

The court's decision held the 5-cent fare to be confiscatory in that it provided earnings of only 2.52 per cent last year, according to the I. R. T. figures.

Italian Airship Starts for Arctic

Dirigible "Italia" Arrives Over Sweden on Way to Explore Polar Wastes — Favored With Fine Weather.

Stockholm, Sweden, May 3 (AP).—General Umberto Nobile, flying the dirigible Italia from Stolp to Spitzbergen for Arctic explorations, has been favored with wonderfully fine weather in the voyage over Sweden.

After winging over the Baltic the Italia passed above Swedish territory at Carlscrona at 5:45 a. m., and, following the Swedish east coast line, passed Oskarshamm at 7:30. A direct course was then held for Stockholm, which was reached at 11 o'clock.

The Italia kept at an altitude of from 300 to 350 meters all the way. Mild varying breezes swept aside all clouds and fog.

The dirigible soon after noon passed Grisselhamn, and disappeared over the Gulf of Bothnia.

After circling Stockholm and prior to setting out over the gulf, the airship was steered to the westward, to Appelviken, where lives the mother of Finn Malgren, one of the expedition's scientists. Descending quite close to the earth, the Italia dropped a message for her from her son.

Smiley Opposes New Trapps Road

Owner of Lake Mohonk Says Construction as Planned Would Destroy Scenic Beauty of Vast Mountain Estate—County Authorities Claim County Has no Choice.

The application of the board of supervisors of the county of Ulster to acquire land by condemnation for the construction of the Gardiner-Kerhonkson, Part I, county highway, came up before Judge Fowler at a special term of the county court on Wednesday morning. Robert G. Groves, county attorney, appeared for the supervisors and Judge Clearwater represented Daniel Smiley, who owns practically all the property through which the proposed road will pass.

Judge Clearwater's objections were of a pronounced and definite, not to say startling character. He said that the road was not one of public necessity, but rather one of political expediency; that as laid out, its western terminal was a swamp, and that no connection with any existing state or county highway was indicated either in the application or on the plans filed; that its construction would involve an extortionately expensive sum estimated by Mr. Smiley's engineers to be at least a million of dollars. It was laid out to cross the Shawangunk Mountains at the region long known as The Trapps; that there were only about a dozen inhabitants along the entire route; that a short distance north of the route proposed, there is and long has been a highway crossing the mountains which for a slight expenditure of money greatly could be improved although now it is adequate not only for all existing travel, but adequate for all travel that probably ever will cross it; that notwithstanding Mr. Smiley's objections and the objections stated by him, the judge, to the construction of the road, and regardless of the enormous expense involved, in his effort to avoid contention, Mr. Smiley had endeavored to agree with the state and county highway authorities for the construction through his property at such a place and manner as to work the least possible disaster to him and at the least possible expense to the taxpayers.

Would Destroy Scenic Beauty.

Judge Clearwater said that Mr. Smiley owned the Lake Mohonk Mountain House, and large tracts of land in the mountains; that the most important part of his holdings were rugged and mountainous and valueless except for scenic value and interest, all of which he and his predecessors in title for seventy-five years had preserved and desired still further to preserve for the benefit and pleasure of the residents of the county and state and people from all over the world who visited Mohonk. That Mr. Smiley had endeavored to have the highway constructed especially so as to avoid a huge scenic boulder of Shawangunk Mountain grit, but notwithstanding his efforts in that direction the highway had been so planned as ruthlessly and unnecessarily to destroy it, and to destroy as well other controlling scenic points of the Mohonk estate. That the construction of the road would involve cuts through hard Shawangunk Mountain grit at least twelve feet deep; that it would be impossible to keep the road open in winter as these cuts would fill with snow.

The judge suggested that an inspection of the situation by the court or by any competent disinterested engineer appointed by the court would demonstrate not only the lack of necessity but the reckless extravagance of the entire proposition.

Only One Question for Court.

Mr. Groves filed the proof of the publication of the statutory notice and proof of service upon all the parties interested. He said that it was his contention that the only question the court could pass upon was that of the public necessity of the road; that it could not take into consideration the question of cost; that in any event, the county paid one-third, the state one-third and the federal government one-third of the cost, and that the road would form a connecting link between the southern part of the county and that part which lay west of the Shawangunk Mountains and of the region on to Liberty and the rest of Sullivan county.

Mr. Groves also thought the estimate of a million dollars by Mr. Smiley's engineers was excessive. That he was desirous of proceeding with the determination of the questions involved at the earliest possible moment, as the construction of other highways largely were dependent upon the letting of the contracts for this one.

Judge Clearwater said that it was his view that the cost of construction was an important factor in the consideration of the question of public necessity. That he also was desirous of an early determination of all the matters involved.

Judge Fowler said that the Supreme court began its sessions on Monday, May 7, and he would set the case down for hearing on the 24th and 25th by which time it was fair to assume the Supreme court would have completed the term.

Road Designated In 1921.

In 1921 the Legislature enacted the Hewitt road map which designated certain roads for improvement. The Gardiner-Kerhonkson road was among the roads so designated and is the last on the 1921 map to be improved.

In 1925 new routes were added to the Hewitt map by the Legislature, which enacted a rider to the bill providing that no roads should be constructed under the 1925 legislation until there had been constructed, or were under construction, the roads designated on the 1921 map.

It is the contention of the county authorities that the county must construct the Gardiner-Kernonkson road before any more roads can be built under the Hewitt plan, under which the state, county and federal government each pay one-third of the cost.

Kingston Auburn Sales Leases the Kuhlmann Garage

The Kuhlmann Garage on Broadway has been leased for a term by Alex Horton, Auburn distributor at Albany, who will conduct the garage under the name of the Kingston Auburn Sales and take over the local sale and service of Auburn automobiles. John L. Shurter, who has been connected with the Auburn line for some time, will become manager of the business, and Martin Snyder, who has had long experience in the automobile repair and service line, will become service man for the Auburn line of motor cars.

Possession will be taken immediately and a line of demonstrators will be on the floor for inspection as soon as the place can be opened up. The Kuhlmann garage at 721 Broadway is one of the largest and most modern garages in the city. In addition to having one of the finest show rooms in the city there is ample storage room for cars. At present the county is occupying a portion of the garage for storage of the county trucks but as soon as the county garage on Gage street is completed the entire property will be taken over by the Kingston Auburn Sales.

Bremen Fliers Reach New York

Leave Washington After One Day's Stay In Which National Capital Heaped Honors Upon Them.

Miller Field, Staten Island, N. Y., May 3 (AP).—The German-Irish crew of the transatlantic monoplane Bremen came back to New York today in a sister ship of their transocean plane after receiving the welcome of the nation's capital.

The fliers landed at 11:30 o'clock, eastern daylight time.

Wear Flying Crosses.

Washington, May 3 (AP).—The adventurous crew of the Bremen sailed away from Washington today for New York, wearing in their coat lapels the insignia of the American Distinguished Flying Cross and cherishing expressions of the good will of the capital which were poured upon them during their one day's visit here.

Up early, with hands blistered from the hearty handshakes which had greeted them yesterday and last night, the three, Baron von Huenefeld, Major Fitzmaurice and Captain Koehl, went to Bolling Field long before 8 o'clock, tuned up their Junkers plane, and took to the air.

Captain Koehl Pilots Plane.

Captain Koehl was piloting the huge plane, a twin ship of the Bremen, when it departed at 8:25 a. m. Fewer than a hundred persons were present to watch the takeoff, the majority of these being newspaper men, photographers, police and aviation mechanics.

R. R. Blythe, of New York, and Fred Melchior, a Junkers mechanic, also were aboard the plane. In preparing for the takeoff Huenefeld and Melchior turned the metal propeller for several minutes. Suddenly they jumped back while Captain Koehl started the engine and the huge blade commenced revolving at rapid speed.

Melchior stepped on top of the left wing inspecting the engine while his blue suit trembled before the wind of the propeller.

Major Davidson Says Farewell.

Major Davidson, field commandant, then mounted the same wing, leaning over in the cockpit for a last farewell to the men whom he had entertained on their visit to Washington to pay tribute to Floyd Bennett's memory.

Before shaking hands for the last time with the fliers, Major Davidson explained the structure of the runway to Captain Koehl so that the take-off might be made without mishap.

Koehl then taxied slowly to the south end of the field, turned to face northwards, and took to the sky after a ground run of 100 yards.

No escort accompanied the Junkers.

Double Parking Led to Arrests

Four arrests were made by Policeman Bowser on Wall street on Wednesday afternoon in an effort to eliminate the practice of automobilists parking their cars in the center of that busy street, causing congestion of traffic. The four arrested were James V. Spadaforda of 19 Hasbrouck avenue, William T. McCormick of Newburgh, David Goldwasser of Rosendale and Mrs. L. S. Gray of this city. This morning in police court Judge Shufeldt fined the three men $5 each and gave the woman a suspended sentence.

Democrats Begin Third Party Move

Leader of Defeated Reed Forces In California Asks Josephus Daniels to Run for Vice President—Daniels Sees No Hope in Movement.

Washington, May 3 (AP).—A third party movement among Democrats unfriendly to Governor Alfred E. Smith had poked its head into the political spotlight today following the New York executive's decisive victory in the California Presidential primaries.

What success the effort will achieve remains to be seen. Its first attempt to find willing candidates has failed.

Josephus Daniels, secretary of the Navy under President Wilson, put his foot down hard on a move made by Wilbur Legette, California manager for Senator Reed of Missouri, to have the former cabinet officer run for vice-president on a third party ticket headed by Reed or Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, if Smith is nominated and either Reed or Borah agree to make the race.

Neither Reed nor Borah have been heard from. It was not stated in the Los Angeles dispatches carrying the Legette appeal to Daniels whether either Senator had been consulted.

Legette Invites Daniels

Legette directed the Reed campaign in California which culminated in the Missourian's crushing defeat, along with Senator Walsh, of Montana at the hands of Smith, now leading by far in the race for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

"Majority vote in southern California against Smith," said his telegram to Daniels, "shows that the best element of Democratic party is not for Smith. If Smith nominated at Houston will you consent to run on third party ticket for vice-president headed by Senator James A. Reed or Senator Borah of Idaho if either agrees? We do not believe southern Democracy will swallow Tammany Hall, do you?"

Daniels Will Support Nominees

Daniel's answer was "that the biggest issue in America today is to wrest the government from the hands of privilege and corruption."

"The only hope for that end," he said, "is in a victory by the Democratic party. I, therefore, expect to support the nominees of the Houston convention. I expect that convention to declare without equivocation for the sacred enforcement of prohibition and all other laws and do not believe any man it will nominate will be as indifferent and as inefficient in enforcement as Mellon has been under the Harding and Coolidge administrations.

"I see no hope in any third party. Enough prohibition Democrats will be elected in Congress to guarantee no weakening of prohibition laws. I would rather not accept a nomination on any third party ticket."

See Desire for Harmony.

Rather than see another split in Democratic ranks such as occurred in the hectic Madison Square Garden convention four years ago and found the party severely wanting support in the November elections that gave Coolidge his first elective term, observers today saw in the Daniels' statement the first tangible evidence of a cry within the ranks for complete agreement on the party's standard bearer next November.

This effort for party harmony was illustrated again last night when Jesse H. Jones of Houston, who won the convention for his home state, requested that contests between Smith and Jones cohorts be avoided in the Texas precinct conventions and declared his only concern of the convention was "from the standpoint of hosts and success of the party in the November elections."

In Respect to Miss Haldane.

The office of the Children's Agent, State Charities' Aid Association, will be closed Friday afternoon, May 4, out of profound respect to Miss Mary Haldane, whose passing deprives the agency of one of its most interested and helpful supporters.

Winston Churchill Ill.

London, May 3 (AP).—Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, was ill with influenza today. He became ill during a debate on his budget and will be unable to attend sessions of the House of Commons for the remainder of the week.

Touring America By Plane.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., May 3 (AP).—The tri-motored ten passenger monoplane bought by Alfred Loewenstein, Belgian financier, for a tour of the country, landed here from Albany this morning on its way to Teterboro, N. J., where it was built.

Hailstones Kill Six Children.

Bucharest, Rumania, May 3 (AP).—Six children were killed by hailstones, reputed to be the size of chicken's eggs, during a hurricane at Klausenburg while the people were celebrating May Day. About ten persons were injured.

Iowa Town Invites Fliers.

Denison, Iowa, May 3 (AP).—Denison, home of the only pilot who ever flew from New York to Germany—Clarence D. Chamberlin—has sent an invitation to the Bremen crew to visit the city.

Six More Quakes at Corinth.

Athens, May 3 (AP).—Six quakes, two of which were strong, were felt at Corinth yesterday. There were no casualties. New quakes were felt this morning.

Would Resign But for Bible

British Premier Baldwin Would Have No Hope, Could Do No Work, Except for Faith In Better Things.

London, May 3 (AP).—But for the hope in [illegible] of a better world Premier Baldwin would resign. Addressing the annual meeting of the British and Foreign Bible Society, he said:

"If I did not feel that our work and the work of all others who hold the same faith and ideals, whether in [illegible] work, was done in the faith and hope that some day maybe a million years hence the Kingdom of God would spread over the whole world, then I should have no hope. I could do no work and I would give over my office to anyone who would take it."

The Bible, he continued, "is not only the greatest literature in the world but above that it always has been and is in the nature of a high explosive in the world."

He said the Bible's influence had repeatedly led and would surely lead again to a great revival of the nation. If it was true that a large number of people never read the Bible, neither politicians nor ecclesiastics could altogether be free of blame for that.

"We seem to carry too much of our struggle in this world in a twilight or a fog," he said. "Friends or men who should be friends are kicking blindly in the struggle and wounding men who are or ought to be brothers and nothing but the light that comes from the Bible can lighten that twilight or dispel that fog."

Body of a Man Found in Cellar

Of a Summer Cottage on Stony Clove Road In Greene County—Evidence Points To Foul Play.

Wednesday morning the body of a man apparently between the age of 25 and 35 was found in the cellar of a summer cottage on the Stony Clove road just beyond the Ulster county line in Greene county. The head and arms were missing and there were no marks of identification. There was a gunshot wound in the right breast and evidence points to foul play, probably at some distant point and that the body was brought to the cellar where it was found. The body was naked when found and it is presumed the clothing was removed to destroy any marks of identification.

The body was found in the cellar of the farm house formerly known as the Edward Kerr farm in the Stony Clove notch between Edgewood and Devil's Tombstone. Harry Neal, a plumber, discovered the body when he went to the place to remove a gasoline pump. The house had been closed for several months, being occupied only during the summer months. When Neal entered the cellar to remove the gasoline pump he discovered the body and immediately notified Coroner Baldwin of Tannersville.

Indications are that the body was brought to the spot where discovered from some point where the man was murdered and all identification marks removed. The body could not have been in the cellar for more than three weeks for about that time Mr. Neal went to the place and inspected the pump for which he returned Wednesday.

Dr. Baldwin has established the fact that the man was between 25 and 35 years old of good sturdy physique and weighed between 175 and 180 pounds. An autopsy will be performed today either by Dr. Atkinson or by a pathologist from New York city.

District Attorney Gardner of Greene county is working in conjunction with Coroner Baldwin in an effort to establish the identity of the man.

Skeletons Found in Hasbrouck Park

City Employe While Busy Excavating Side Hill Unearths What is Apparently an Ancient Indian Cemetery—Several Skeletons Unearthed.

While Frank Rosenzweig of 46 Chambers street, employed by the board of public works, was busy this morning with pick and shovel in the side hill in Hasbrouck Park about three hundred feet from the asphalt plant he unearthed what is apparently an ancient Indian Cemetery.

The board of public works is having the earth excavated from the side hill in Hasbrouck Park carted over to Cornell Park where a fill is necessary. It was while digging into the side hill that the human bones were uncovered.

The skeletons when uncovered were found to have been buried with the head facing the east. The bones when uncovered by the employes of the board were placed in a heap to one side. Just what will be done with them was not ascertained.

This is not the first time that skeletons, apparently those of Indians, have been unearthed in this city, but as far as known today's discovery was the first of the finding of bones in Hasbrouck Park off Delaware avenue.

Stepdaughter of Mrs. Knapp Denies Doing State Work

Testifies at Trial of Former Secretary of State, Charged With Grand Larceny—Received Two Checks From Mrs. Knapp—Did Not Endorse Checks on Which Complaint is Based.

Court House, Albany, N. Y., May 3 (AP).—Clara Blanche Knapp of Middlebury College, Vermont, at 12:17 today took the witness chair in special term of the Supreme court here to tell her connection, if any, with a state census pay check for $2,875.06 in her favor which her stepmother, Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, is accused of diverting to her own uses.

Passing directly to the main point which the prosecution stated it would seek to prove, George Z. Medalie, chief prosecuting attorney, in five minutes had brought from the witness the statements that she had never lived in Albany, had never done any state census work, did not know that she had been placed on a state payroll and had never done any work for New York state.

Miss Knapp testified that she was not in the state at various times supposed to have been covered by various census pay checks in her favor.

Tells of Receiving Checks

She then told of receiving from Mrs. Knapp sometime in the summer of 1925 while she was on a vacation in New Hampshire a check for $217.48 and a letter. To the best of her recollection Mrs. Knapp asked her in the letter to turn the check over to Mrs. Bodkin (sister of Mrs. Knapp.)

Another check came soon after,—she testified, which, to the best of her recollection Mrs. Knapp told her in a letter was "rightfully hers." (Mrs. Knapp's)

She testified that she deposited the first check to her account and then drew a check for the same amount and sent it to Mrs. Bodkin.

Did Not Endorse Pay Checks.

Various pay checks to her order were placed in evidence. She said the endorsement "C. B. Knapp" were not in her handwriting, that she had not endorsed them and that she had not known of their existence until it was called to her attention a few days ago here.

The judge asked her if she had ever authorized anyone to endorse the checks for her, and she replied in the negative.

To Compare Handwriting.

The checks were received in evidence at the request of Mr. Medalie not only as evidence in themselves but also for the purpose of comparing endorsements with Mrs. Knapp's handwriting as revealed on her oath of office in Exhibit 1.

The check on which the indictment was based was placed in evidence in the same way, all of them over the objections of defense counsel. This was in amount, $2,875.06.

Q—Did you ever receive this check?

A—No.

Q—Did you know of its existence until 1927?

A—No.

Q—Did you write "C. B. Knapp" on the back?

A—No.

Q—Did you authorize any one to do so?

A—No.

Q—Or to keep the proceeds?

A—No.

Q—Or to do anything with the proceeds?

Does Not Look at Stepmother.

Although seated almost directly facing her stepmother, against whom she was testifying, Miss Knapp did not once look at the defendant. Mrs. Knapp, on the other hand, frequently gazed at her stepdaughter, both gray-haired women of about the same age.

Mrs. Knapp was dressed in a dark blue dress, black fur trimmed coat and close-fitting black hat.

Seventeen checks in all, ranging in amount from $101 to $2,875, were introduced. In each Miss Knapp testified she had not received the check, endorsed it, authorized anyone to endorse it, or received the proceeds.

Prosecutor Opens Case.

George Z. Medalie, the prosecutor, began his opening statement to the jury in Mrs. Knapp's trial for grand larceny just after ten o'clock.

"The indictment in this case," Medalie began, charges that on November 17, 1925, the defendant stole from the state of New York a check in the amount of $2,875.06."

Defense Objects to Chart.

Just before court convened, a clerk hung up against the wall in full view of the jury box a huge chart indicating census salary payments to six relatives of Mrs. Knapp. The chart showed the amounts of the payments and the periods covered in each case and quickly became the subject of the first objection of the actual trial.

Leading up to the place of the chart in the state's case, Mr. Medalie in a general way outlined the avenue of attacking. The check itself was false, he declared, because Clara Blanche Knapp, "did not work for the state of New York on the census or otherwise at the time covered by the check or other time, or did not earn $2,875.06 or any amount, and Florence E. S. Knapp knew the representation to be false."

"She got that money from the state

OLD SOURDOUGH IS OWN DENTIST

Lack of Teeth Forces Him to Levy New Set From Forests.

Seattle.—They used to say the meat packers reached the height of efficiency when they utilized everything about the hog but the squeal. The palm for utilization of available resources, however, goes to Nim Robinson, thirty-third degree sourdough, who lives at Eagle City, Alaska, on the Yukon river, twelve miles or so from the Canadian-Alaskan boundary line and some 100 miles from Dawson, Yukon territory, center of the great Klondike gold rush of 1897, writes William C. Lyons in the New York Times.

After some seventy summers, half of which had been passed in the almost continuous daylight of the Arctic climes—as well as an equal number of dark, long winters—Nim, being still youthful in spirit and resourceful in the extreme when ambition or necessity called for action, deemed it necessary to extract most of his teeth.

Oatmeal mush and canned soups are warming food commodities for a breakfast when the mercury hovers around sixty below, and great quantities of them are consumed along the Yukon; but noon time and evening call for red meat. The sourdough seldom complains when the meat is tough; he can handle it easily—if he has teeth.

"What this country really needs," Nim has often reflected, in a paraphrase of that famous epigram of the late Vice President Marshall, "is a good journeyman dentist!"

But the country did not boast such a luxury. True, the United States public health service sends a floating hospital up the Yukon some summers, but more often than not it stops at Fort Gibbons or goes up the Tanana to Nenana, when the early freezing cuts it off from the upper reaches of the great waterway—and iceway. Hence, Eagle City gets its dental service perhaps once in five years.

"Who wants to wait five years for a set of false teeth," Nim also reflected. And from that reflection an idea was born: "I'll have to make a set myself."

Novel Training for Dentistry.

Nim had gone into the interior of Alaska about the time the first cry of "Gold!" resounded from the Yukon. He had found a few small pay streaks, but he was one of the large horde who did not amass great wealth and returned to Seattle, Portland or San Francisco to start banks and big mercantile establishments. He stayed; these thirty years he stayed, and as time went on he became a past master in the lore of woodcraft. He learned about the habitats, the habits and the anatomy—even if not the language—of the black bear, the grizzly, the wolf and the timid mountain sheep.

He became a mighty hunter, and, while the fascinating lure of the search for gold again and again gripped him, and even occasionally now, in his old age, still grips him, he is known best as a hunter. Hence the name, Nim. Christian names mean little in the Alaskan wilds. He lost his in a few years and became first "Nimrod" and then just plain "Nim," as he is known today. Perhaps he remembers his old name, but nobody else does.

When the great idea about his teeth came Nim set forth for the deep woods where grow the mighty spruce trees that exude gum from the bark, known to woodsman and sourdough as spruce gum. With a good-sized "hunk" of this, he fashioned a mold, as the dentist would have had him do. On a hunting sortie he bagged a growling bear, a snarling wolf and a bleating mountain sheep.

From each of these animals he matched teeth according to their suitability for incisors, grinders or molars. On his small native grindstone which he turned with a foot-pedal he ground the teeth of these animals to suitable lengths and shapes.

As a miner, Nim had collected slugs of silver, remnants from his mortar and crucible. These he spun or drew through dies, which he had made himself, into a thin wire. Upon the wire he strung his sheep, wolf and bear teeth and bound them together until they looked like the necklace ornaments of the Indians of old who still live about him in the deep woods and along the streams.

A Go at Science.

About the village he sought until he found some of the rubber remains of the shoe-packs or rubber boots essential to the sourdough's wardrobe. These he sacrificed on the altar of science in cast-iron pots until he had obtained a material sufficiently plastic to shape around the spruce-gum molds. He succeeded.

The teeth were fastened—could it be called vulcanized?—into the plates. And the silver wire anchoring the teeth to the plate and holding them together before they were cast, gave the semblance of a liberal use of amalgam in fillings and camouflaged the falseness!

Nim still hunts the bear and the mountain sheep, and with the teeth of their ancestors defies their stringy toughness as he puts away liberal portions of the red meat so essential to meet the rigors of the last fron tier. It was several years ago when he fashioned the plates. The government doctors came and go their ways now, but Nim has no business with them—unless they want some advice on the laboratory side of their profession.

Sounds fishy? Maudacious, perhaps? The story is vouched for as true by Carl M. Johansen, president of Swedish Steel Products, Inc., of Seattle and San Francisco. Back in the early '90s Mr. Johansen was Cornell's first paid football coach. In those early days before eligibility rules interfered he played star football for eight years—four at Cornell, three at Williams and one at Harvard. He wrote authoritatively on football in the old New York Sun, before the late Walter Camp was heard of. He has known Nim Robinson since Nim first went to Alaska.

Buddhism's Many Sects

Like the Christian religion, while fundamental principles and doctrines are usually accepted, there is wide divergence in doctrine and polity of Buddhism. In Japan there are 12 sects of Buddhism, 13 sects of Shintoism and 12 forms of Christianity. Religious freedom is absolute in the empire.

BETTY BRONSON

GIRLHOOD'S GREATEST BEAUTY CHOSEN

Film world says most appealing charm is smooth skin

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—Speaking eyes, enticing lips, beautiful hair—all these the movie star may have but they avail her nothing, say directors, if she is not possessed of smooth skin. "Studio Skin" must be exquisitely smooth for Klieg lights are all-revealing in the close-ups.

Herbert Brenon, director for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, says, "The most appealing single beauty a girl can have is certainly exquisitely lovely skin." And all Hollywood agrees that every actress who has become a star has had skin of exceptional loveliness.

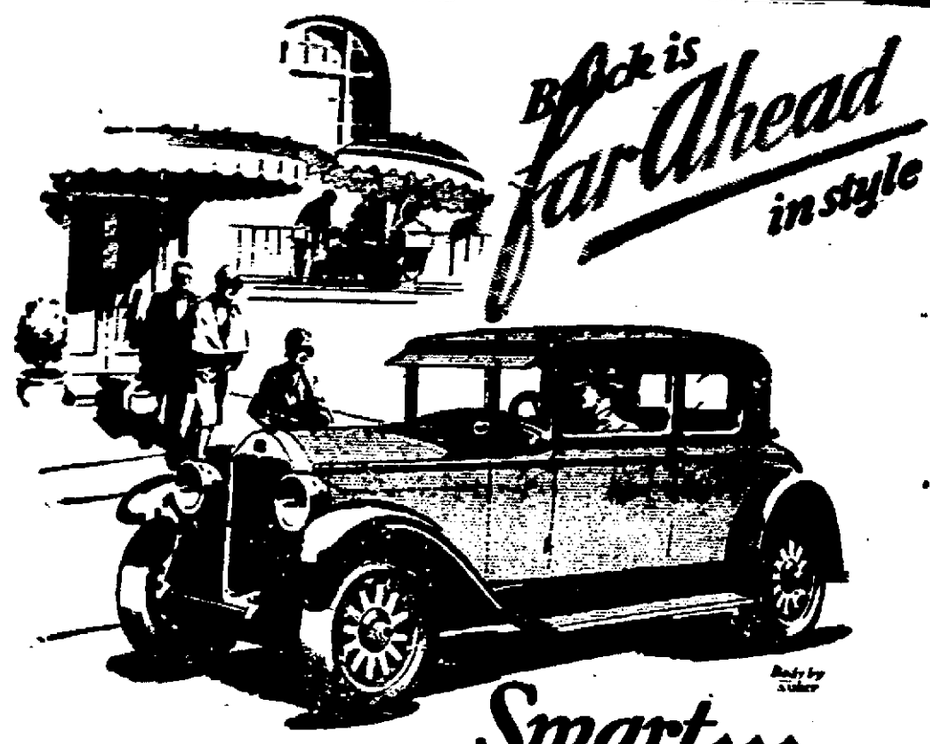

Nine out of ten stars find Lux Toilet Soap is marvellous for smooth skin. Betty Bronson, enchanting young star, enthusiastically declares, "I find this lovely soap is wonderful for my skin."

All the big film studios have placed Lux Toilet Soap in their dressing rooms, which indicates clearly enough how definitely they value smooth skin. Lux Toilet Soap is made by Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

BUICK leads the fashion parade

Fashionable throngs . . . sparkling motor cars . . . and standing out like a frock from Paris—today's Buick!

Fleet, low lines, suggesting rocket-like getaway and unrivaled power . . . glistening colors, vivid and varied as the harmonies of spring . . . and soft, rich upholsteries, delightful to the sight and touch.

Luxury like this ordinarily costs a thousand dollars more. But Buick leads any other three cars in its field in dollar for dollar sales; and this tremendous volume makes possible unequaled value.

You may as well have a fine car, when you can buy it at Buick's price. Smart—youthful—colorful—Buick leads the fashion parade.

Blindfolded . . . in scientific test of leading Cigarettes, Mrs. Emily Post selects OLD GOLD

"Personally, I have never acquired a taste for tobacco. For most cigarettes seem to burn my tongue and sting my throat. The only time I ever smoke, therefore, is in courtesy to someone coming to my house, who would lay her accustomed cigarette aside unless I at least lit one, too.

"It seemed absurd, at first, that I should be chosen to attempt this blindfold test . . . except that never having become a smoker, my taste is extremely sensitive to the burning harshness of the average cigarette.

"But I was very much surprised to find that I had chosen OLD GOLD as being perceptibly smooth, stingless and pleasant to taste. In fact, I now quite easily understand why the OLD GOLD compartment in my general cigarette box must be so constantly refilled."

Call attention to recent rise in BANK, TRUST and INSURANCE shares.

I CONTINUE TO RECOMMEND an Investment Trust Stock embracing BANK Stocks, TRUST Companies and INSURANCE Company shares only, par value $10.00, present price $13.00, dividend yield about 5 per cent.

A non-dividend Industrial stock, present price $23.00 a share, the purchase of which I suggest for substantial profit.

December 2nd, 1927, and up to December 30th, 1927.

I Called Attention

In these columns to an Investment Insurance stock, the price of which during that time advanced from $80 to $85 a share. Now quoted at $89 a share and I believe ready for a new and substantial advance in price.

I solicit your inquiries which will be answered by mail. You will not be annoyed with personal solicitation.

I do make personal calls, but these are made by appointment UPON REQUEST ONLY.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 3 (AP).—Speculative uneasiness over the credit situation subsided somewhat today and prices moved irregularly higher. Pools resumed activities in a wide assortment of stocks. A plentiful supply of call money at the renewal figure of 5 per cent, followed by a drop to 4½ in the early afternoon, and Secretary Mellon's assurance that the meeting of Federal Reserve governors was without special significance and that no important action was contemplated in connection with the brokers' loan situation, helped to revive bullish confidence.

Motor shares were heavily bought on reports of large current earnings. General Motors leading the advance with a gain of 4 points. Chrysler mounted to a new high level in anticipation of a record-breaking first quarter report after the close of the market.

Higher earnings also provided the background for the advance in public utility issues. Montana Power soared 9 points to 175 and was followed into new high ground by American Telephone, International Telephone, Philadelphia Company and Columbia Gas, the gains running as high as 4 points. New York tractions quickly climbed to new peak prices and then lost their gains on the traditional "selling on the good news" which followed the announcement that the federal statutory court had granted the Interborough Rapid Transit's application for a seven cent fare.

Oils were again reactionary on selling presumably inspired by the reported failure of Seminole field operators to reach an agreement for extending the curtailing arrangement which expires May 15. Fresh selling also developed in some of the tobaccos with Lorillard touching a new 1928 low. Coty broke 6½ points on realizing.

Rails were mixed. Southern Railway touched a new record high at 163. Missouri Pacific common crossed 59 to a new peak on buying influenced by expectations of an early report by the committee appointed to study a plan for paying off the back dividends on the preferred. New York and Harlem, which recently broke from 505 to 226 on odd lot transactions, was again in demand, moving from 325 to 370. Chicago and Alton issues were again under selling pressure after their rapid advance of Tuesday.

New Defense Line In Northern China

Efforts Being Made to Consolidate Northern Troops Who Are Being Withdrawn From Other Sections —Planes Drop Bombs on Shanghai.

Shanghai, May 3 (AP).—Further withdrawal of Northern troops from all fronts in an effort to consolidate in a new line of defense is indicated in reports of the military situation in northern China today.

Even Shansi and southwestern Nhili are being abandoned by the beleaguered Pekingese who are strenuously endeavoring to get into a position to make a new stand along a front extending from Paotung-Fu, Hokien-Fu, and Terchow to the Yellow river. This line of defense would have its center protected by heavy marshes.

General Chiang Kai-Shek is reported at Tsinan-Fu with 20,000 men preparing an advance on Tehchow. The whole region in the neighborhood of the Shantung-Tsinan railway is being greatly disturbed by parties of the routed Northerners. A particularly aggravated situation exists in Weihsien where looting was started.

Protection for Japanese Residents.

Japanese military heads are considering what steps had best be taken for the protection of Japanese residents of that area and at Tsinan-Fu.

The fact that the Japanese established a cordon twelve miles around Tsingtao with 2,000 troops resulted in the maintenance of order there. Northerners numbering about 2,000 demanded a million dollars of the city and threatened to loot it if their demand was not granted. The Japanese infested the place and captured the trouble makers, disarming them and shipping them to North China.

The Japanese are said to be considering taking over Tsingtao for three months until the situation improves.

Most foreigners are living in basements part of the time to escape gunfire.

by this cheat and swindle," he said.

Medalie Alleges Motive.

As to motive for the alleged larcenies, Mr. Medalie said that when Mrs. Knapp became secretary of state in 1925 she owed about $2,000 to the E. W. Edwards and Son Department Store, which increased to about $3,600 in 1926. He told of the probable expense of maintaining Mrs. Knapp's Albany home.

"She was being pressed for payment on a long past due and rapidly increasing account," Mr. Medalie declared.

FLIERS' WIVES AMBITIOUS TO MEET COL. LINDBERGH

New York, May 3 (AP).—The one ambition of Mrs. James Fitzmaurice and Mrs. Hermann Koehl while in this country is to meet Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

The flying colonel is now in this city but whether any arrangement would be made to have him meet the wives of the two pilots of the transatlantic monoplane Bremen could not be learned.

"We all admire him so much," said Mrs. Fitzmaurice, "and certainly would like to see him before we return."

Another hope of the two women is that they may be permitted to wander about by themselves through the shops and the avenues and to see the bright lights of Broadway.

Gunmen Rob Diamond Shop.

Kansas City, Kansas, May 3 (AP).—Six men held up the Helseberg Diamond Shop, two blocks from police headquarters here today and escaped with jewels valued at $17,800 after disarming a policeman and eluding two automobile loads of officers.

Almost Got It

At English court balls and receptions, it is usual to have a major domo whose duty it is to announce the names and titles (if any) of the arriving guests. On one occasion an announcer, engaged only for the evening, "oiled his throat" a little too often, chuckles Percy Armytage in his memoirs, "By the Clock of St. James." Very late, Mrs. Dawson-Damer, afterward Lady Portarlington, arrived. The befuddled announcer struggled vainly to grasp her name and, giving it up, startled and amused the company by shouting out at the top of his voice:

"Mrs. Dawson—dam' 'er!"

On Seeing

This habitable world is a tangle of beauties, like the interlacing of the sunshine and the shadows in a summer wood when the sunlight rules the sky. A world full of loveliness, and we see it not! So many dusks and dawns nobody watches. I resent people running mad over carnivals and slighting the pageants of the morning and the night, worth a pilgrimage about our world to catch sight of once. One sunset in a decade; how thronged the way would be that led to its mountain! One in a week; who watches?—William A. Quayle, in "God's Out-of-Doors."

LUTHERAN CHURCH RECITAL A SUCCESS

The organ recital and concert given at St. Paul Lutheran Church on Monday evening attracted an audience that completely filled the charming new church edifice on Hasbrouck avenue.

The Rev. Carl Romoser, pastor of the church, opened the recital with a short invocation and later in the evening gave a most interesting, instructive and inspiring talk on the "Ministry of Music in the Church".

W. Whiting Fredenburgh, organist, opened the program with the brilliant number "Introduction and Allegro," by Bache, followed by the dainty Reverie of Dickinson and the ever popular "Spring Song" of Mendelssohn. These numbers revealed the power of the organ and the variety and beauty of the solo stops.

Mrs. Wicks, as soprano soloist, sang in her accustomed finished manner the delightful song of Sidney Homer, "Sheep and Lambs", which impressed all, both with the beauty of the melody and the charming story the words told.

The anthem "Hark, Hark My Soul" by Shelly, with Mrs. Doty and Mrs. Wicks as soloists and Mrs. Herman LaTour, Frank Eimendorf and Harry Clearwater, provided an exceedingly beautiful choral number and was given a most finished rendition.

Mrs. Doty, contralto soloist, sang Max Spicker's wonderful solo, "In Thee, O God, Do I put my Trust." This number gives wonderful scope for her rich contralto voice and she thrilled all by its artistic rendition.

Mr. Fredenburgh's other noteworthy numbers included the Dutch Lullaby arranged by Clarence Dickinson and the Meditation, an unusual number by the Russian composer, Bubeck. These numbers all demonstrated the beauty, power and variety of the organ and were played with Mr. Fredenburgh's well known ability as an accomplished organist.

The anthem, "The Day is Past and Over," by Marks, the solo parts being sung by Mrs. Wicks and Mr. LaTour, provided another real choral gem and was listened to with rapt attention.

Mr. Fredenburgh brought the concert to a close playing that brilliant organ number, "Offertoire" by Wely.

The expressions of delight voiced by many in the audience, after the concert, gave evidence that St. Paul Lutheran Church had provided an evening of music that will be long remembered.

DAIRY IMPROVEMENT ASS'N. MEETING AT NEW PALTZ.

The annual meeting of the Ulster County Dairy Improvement Association and the Dairy Improvement Club will be held at the Tamney Hotel in New Paltz, Monday evening, May 7, at 7 o'clock standard time. A very interesting program has been arranged.

Professor Crandall, of the Animal Husbandry department at Ithaca, will be the principal speaker. He is well acquainted with many Ulster county herds and will discuss individual animals in detail. He will point out how and why certain records were made, explaining better feeding practices to improve the quality of dairy cows.

Ulster county should be proud of the fact that seven National Dairy Association Honor Rolls came to the county. This is indeed an accomplishment because only slightly over one hundred were distributed in the entire state. These honor rolls will be given out at the meeting Monday night.

The plan is to have supper together at 7 and hold the meeting immediately afterward. Anyone particularly interested is invited to attend if they will notify Albert Kurdt, Ulster County Farm Bureau Manager, at the Farm Bureau office in Kingston, by Saturday, May 5.

A modern dance is one of those affairs you go to like a lion and go out like a lamp.

WE HAVE $175,000.00 to lend on First Mortgage on improved property in Ulster, Orange, Rockland, Dutchess and Putnam Counties. Borrowers welcome. Moderate charge.

COUNTRY PLAYGROUNDS.

W. J. Faust, head of the Recreation Association of America, is concerned about farm boys and girls because they have no uniform playgrounds, no instruction from elders and none of the play stimulation commonly afforded city youngsters. He has found country parents too busy to amuse their children.

It is probably true that some country children never learn how to play and fail to get full enjoyment from their rural surroundings. One city mother, taking her own youngsters to visit friends in the country, was shocked to find that the children on the visited farm never went on rambles in the woods that lay back of the grain fields and pasture land. Those country children had never paddled in the very charming brook that crossed their farm until the city children set the example. They sometimes went on picnics to an amusement park some miles away, but they never picnicked in their own woods or orchard. There are probably many like them.

What such children need, it seems to some thoughtful observers, is not so much "uniform playgrounds" with playground apparatus, as an introduction to the opportunities that lie about them. They need such instruction in bird lore and nature study as city children now receive in progressive schools. And no doubt their parents need to be taught that play is as essential to their children's right development as fresh milk. But, generally speaking, children will find ways to play, without the intervention of salaried professionals seeking to standardize recreation.

"CASHING IN" AT YALE.

Prof. "Billy" Phelps induced that "shy" and "erudite" young pugilist, "Gene" Tunney, to lecture on Shakespeare at Yale, and "Gene" pleased the boys by saying that the bard of Avon was a real "sport." He further entertained them by reading a passage from "Troilus and Cresida"—about sulking Achilles and blustering Ajax (who reminded him of Sharkey)—and then by saying he thought the lines of Ulysses in this scene "are the most wonderful words in Shakespeare, because they apply to me." The "philosophy" he found in it all was "cash in while you can," for once "you get out of the limelight you are forgotten quickly." Mr. Tunney also "got the crowd" by saying: "It occurs to me whether, if Shakespeare were alive today, he would be a boxing fan, and would he be rooting for me in Chicago to get up in that seventh round or stay down." Later he modestly announced: "While I am not an authority on Shakespeare, I do not think there is any one living who has more appreciation of him than I. I worship at his shrine."

But he admitted that he was slow in achieving this pre-eminence in appreciation. The constant talk about Shakespeare of a marine in France induced "Gene" to tackle "A Winter's Tale," but, although he "knew most of the words," he "could not understand it." He had to read it "ten times" before he "finally got the metre." He should have been advised to begin with "As You Like It." Stimulated by his naturally intense interest in the knocking out of the professional athlete by Orlando, he would doubtless have been able to "get the metre" sooner.

IMPROVEMENT IN SPEECH.

Desiring to promote improvement in American speech through recognition of the best diction, particularly in regard to pronunciation, "accent" and quality of vocal tone, the American Academy of Arts and Letters awarded its medal two years ago to Walter Hampden, last year to Edith Wynne Mathison, and this year to Otis Skinner—three distinguished actors of the speaking stage. It is good news that this academy has now voted to offer a medal for excellence of diction in broadcasting, for an agency that reaches forty million persons every day can influence American speech far more extensively than the spoken drama. In his acceptance of the medal, Otis Skinner gives the following interesting summary of the great diversity of "vocal tang" which greets the discerning ear in this vast country:

In the pot-pourri one hears the Puritanical nasality of New England, the shrill and raucous emphasis of Pennsylvania the soft negroid of Virginia bred of generations of quiet mammy's crooning to the babies, the drone of the mountaineer, the flat tones of Kentucky and Tennessee, the assertive "r" of the Middle West, the Scandinavian lilt of Minnesota and Wisconsin, and—God save the mark!—New Yorkese. Upon the speech of these sections has been superimposed the influence of every known language from Polynesia to Kamchatka. It is shot at our ears from the lips of public servants, saleswomen and our charming girl graduates, from Rotary and Kiwanis gatherings, from legislative halls and women's luncheon clubs. Its most devastating influences is all too frequently found in the unchastened accents of instructors in our public schools.

There will be protest from the sections and classes named, but the wide diversity is a fact and the need of improvement of intelligent effort toward betterment, is obvious—although absolute uniformity is not necessary and even undesirable.

COMMON SENSE EATING.

It must be confusing to readers who follow the health writings in various newspapers and magazines to see the wide difference in opinion as to the right quantity of foods for their daily needs.

One writer stresses vegetables, another fruits, another milk, and another is brave enough to advise the use of meats every day.

Now as a matter of fact what you eat and the amount you eat should be in accordance with your age, sex, weight and occupation.

Dr. Blum in his book has a diet or diets for practically every age and weight in healthy folks, and the same for every form of ailment such as hardening of arteries, inflammation of kidneys, heart ailments, skin ailments, and so forth.

However, if you are the average helathy individual you might do well to follow the advice of Dr. McCollum of Johns Hopkins who says that the general rules of diet can be summed up in four simple rules:

1. Build up the daily menus around a quart of milk for each member of the family.

2. Use eggs and meat frequently but not excessively.

3. Serve salads twice a day to insure such raw vegetables foods as fruits, tomatoes, celery, lettuce, onions and so forth appearing regularly in the menu.

4. Serve one leafy vegetable such as beet tops, spinach, cabbage, and so forth each day.

He states that if you meet these requirements you can eat whatever else you desire.

Now your quart of milk does not have to be taken as milk, but of course could be taken in bread or rice puddings, soups, or in other ways.

Meat or eggs should be eaten frequently which rather upsets the exclusive vegetarian diet recommended by so many writers.

For the average healthy man or woman meat or eggs once a day is sufficient. Any more might start trouble with blood vessels or kidneys.

Of course if you work hard physically you can safely eat meat or eggs twice a day.

The suggestion as to salads and the leafy vegetable is certainly worth following. In fact this is where most folks make their mistake; they fail to eat enough raw vegetable or fresh fruits.

The only food Dr. McCollum leaves out is bread.

Bread is a good food and should be eaten twice a day.

Milk can be the wrong food in some intestinal conditions, raw fruits and vegetables in intestinal and some skin ailments.

Remember, the above suggestions are for a normal healthy individual.

Keeping Honey

Unless in a sealed package, honey should be kept in a dry place; otherwise it is likely to absorb moisture and spoil, for when diluted it will ferment or sour readily, as will any other similar sugar sirup. Heat and dryness are usually found together in the household, and ordinarily the safest places for honey are the warmest places; the least desirable is the refrigerator.

The Separate Velveteen Jacket by Chanel Scores at Monte Carlo—Cross Fox Scarfs Rival Silk Ones

Monte Carlo—The success of the uneven hem has started designers of other things than skirts thinking about the standardizing effect of broken lines, with the result that one now sees sweaters with scalloped edges.

The same idea, possibly, is expressed a bit differently in scarfs, for although the large-blocked red, white, and blue scarf, the outstanding scarf of the year, is a large handkerchief, another type, not square but the dimensions of a man's scarf, has fringed ends. This scarf is white, polka dotted in one of the several desirable colors of the year and fringed with color matching the dot.

It is, however, the square scarf, folded cornerwise and worn in rather a narrow fold that is the most interesting development of a year not especially given over to scarfs; in fact, cross fox is worn even more than a silk scarf with sports costumes, sweaters not excepted. It may also be mentioned that tricot or knitted scarfs of Rodier woolens have some interest on the Riviera. Chanel shows one with the beige ground matching a plain slip-on sweater, the design of the scarf being a zigzag one in navy.

Another Chanel fashion that has many sponsors is the plain velveteen jacket, either single or double-breasted, and worn over a slip-on sweater or with a crepe blouse, usually with pleated jabot. These jackets are worn with tweed, homespun, kasha, or pleated crepe skirts, and are quite a feature in Monte Carlo.

Red Letter Days.

By Edna Wallace Hopper

For very special ocasions, "when one simply must look her best" the skin needs freshening and toning. And a "facial" comes to the rescue.

Some women look young and carefully groomed for a night or two. Then their skin gradually lapses back into muddy, dull hue... until another important event.

Edna Wallace Hopper as she looks today

You can give your face the firm, flawless tone of youth. You should keep it in this condition, not only for important engagements but every day because you're just as closely scrutinized day in and day out.

This is the simple treatment I have found really necessary for youthful skin:

Apply my White Youth Clay once a week, twice a month or as often as your skin requires. After washing it off you will feel the pleasant sensation of a real astringent. The clay rids your skin of blackheads and similar blemishes, gently purging the pores of their accumulated impurities which sometimes sink so deep, especially in oily skins.

My White Youth Clay is the only dainty, agreeable clay pack I know. You can get it at any toilet counter.

Sweeter, whiter clothes ...and I don't use a washboard

"RINSO surely saves me time and work. I have my entire wash on the lines much earlier now," says this woman—one of the many Rinso users in your vicinity who have written us.

"Even the ground-in dirt loosens right up in those rich, safe suds so that I don't have to bother with rubbing or even boiling. And I must say Rinso turns out whiter, sweeter, more sparkling clothes than I was ever able to get with washboard rubbing.

"Another thing: Rinso does a fine job on the dishes. It gets rid of the grease in a wink. And there's no grit in it."

Clothes last longer

The sudsiest, swiftest-working suds you ever saw—that's Rinso! Try it this washday, and compare results.

See how dirt and stains soak out without scrubbing. How even cuffs and edges become snowy with little or no rubbing. No wonder clothes last longer—no wonder hands stay younger!

Rinso is all you need, even in hard water. It asks no help of bar soaps, chips or powders. So safe, too—contains nothing to harm your finest cottons or linens.

You get your full money's worth when you buy this granulated soap—it's so compact. Just feel how weighty the package is! For economy and best results, follow the easy directions on the box.

And for washers—just great!

More than 32,000 washing machine demonstrators use Rinso to show whiter results. And the makers of 32 leading washers recommend it for safety. They know! Get the BIG package from your grocer now.

News From the World on Wheels

A straight eight of 120 horsepower is the latest Graham-Paige product, completing the series of five chassis models comprising an entire new line of passenger cars—the first to bear the name of the three Graham brothers. Four sixes have already been brought out, and have met with so great a demand that all production records in the 18 years' history of the factory have been broken. The new eight, 135-inch wheel base, is described as a masterpiece of automotive construction, embodying not only an engine of unusual power and performance ability, but many advanced features in body and chassis design, including the new Graham-Paige four-speed transmission. It is a car designed to take a place immediately among fine motor cars of outstanding performance and distinctive appearance.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Allsop, Auckland, New Zealand, have been traveling nearly a year on the longest and the most unusual automobile trip ever undertaken. At the present time they are aboard ship enroute with their car, a Packard six sedan, from Tasmania to Durban, South Africa. They expect to complete their motor tour in midsummer, 1928, after having wandered all over the world and making one complete circle of the globe. Because there are no such things as hotels in some of the far corners of the world they are visiting, the Allsop's Packard is actually a mobile home. To outward appearance, however, it is a standard Packard six sedan. The inside of the car is converted into a comfortable bed by lifting out the front of the back seat and using it to fill the space between the front and the back seat. Equipment consists of two spare wheels and tires, a comfortable tent with tables, folding chairs and other wire rope and winch, carried in a box on one of the running boards, as emergency equipment for extracting the car from any difficult place, have not been disturbed thus far Mr. Allsop wrote.

Another transcontinental record has been shattered by the world's champion Studebaker Commander, according to cable reports received by The Studebaker Corporation of America. This time the Commander proved its title in Australia by crossing the Australian continent from Freemantle to Brisbane, for not only a new trans-Australian record, but six other new speed and endurance records as well. The car was a strictly stock Studebaker Commander roadster,—the same model that traveled 25,000 miles in less than 22,000 minutes at the Atlantic speedway last fall.

Announcement of a two passenger coupe in the senior Six line has been made by Dodge Brothers, Inc. The car is built with a wide single seat extending across the body, and back of the seat is a carrying compartment providing ample space for luggage, sample cases, etc.

Announcement was made today of a new and lower priced model, the Series 81 5 passenger Club Brougham by the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company. The new body style is priced at $2750 at Buffalo, and is offered in three color options.

The skilled painter and pure lead paint can show you how to get 100 cents' protection out of every dollar for painting

HIRE a painter . . . one who is wise in the ways of applying paint and who relies on pure lead paint as have generations of his fellow craftsmen.

This skilled painter and this paint, made with Dutch Boy white-lead, save your money . . . and your house. The skill of the painter insures proper mixing and application of the paint. The lead paint insures full protection against the weather. It is economical to use . . . spreads far . . . has remarkable hiding power.

Dutch Boy white-lead paint gives a tough . . . elastic . . . weather-proof film that does not crack or scale. This film wears . . . and wears . . . makes fewer repainting jobs to pay for. And when repainting does become necessary, you save money because pure lead paint remains intact and smooth . . . does not require burning or scraping off before applying new paint.

For painting inside and out

Dutch Boy white-lead, in either heavy paste or soft paste form, is sold by leading paint dealers.

For exterior use your professional painter mixes Dutch Boy white-lead with linseed oil to make a superior gloss paint. He gets a thoroughly washable flat paint for interiors by mixing this white-lead with Dutch Boy flatting oil. In either case he can color the paint exactly as you desire.

Arbor Day

Arbor Day is a day definitely set apart for consideration of the important matter of forest protection and preservation. It is celebrated throughout the land by the planting of trees and the delivery of addresses on forest conservation.

The importance of this question can hardly be over estimated. For forests not only constitute our ample supply of lumber for all purposes, but also they have marked influence on stream flow and water supply and on the preservation of wild life.

This company heartily endorses the movement for forest conservation. As an earnest of its sincerity, it has planted upwards of 40,000 pine and spruce trees along the Wallkill River between the Dashville and Sturgeon Pool hydro stations.

Also, it has men trained in the art of tree trimming whose duty it is to see that all such work along the power lines of the company is done scientifically, that the trees may not be injured nor their growth retarded.

The Hudson Victoria has everywhere met an eager acceptance that stamps it one of the most popular models Hudson ever built. Its low, sweeping lines, lustrous colors and spirited grace in action, pick it out in the big parade with vivid distinction.

The interior finish and arrangement, hundreds of buyers tell us, is the roomiest and most comfortable ever provided in this type of car. The driver's seat and companion front seat are high-backed, form-fitting and deeply upholstered.

The rear seat is ample for two, with exceptionally comfortable riding position and plenty of leg room. Every detail is of silenced construction, extending even to the insulated door construction of exclusive design.

The Victoria is but one of the brilliant new models responsible for the definite leadership in mode which Hudson has set.

In the beautifully designed and luxuriously finished bodies that feature all new Hudson Super-Sixes, the same relation of values obtain as made the Super-Six chassis famous. A single ride will revise your whole knowledge of automobile values.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

New York—The Rev. John Feringa, curate, says he is very glad that women have retained the right to change their minds. He was wholly reconciled to the loss of the charming Miss Grace Waldron when she became engaged to John Graham Ardun, General Motors executive, but now happy is no name for his feelings. She is engaged to him.

Cannes, France—After a ceremony marked by smiles and tears of joy Michael Arlen and his beautiful bride, the Countess Mercati, are on a honeymoon in his first real home since childhood, throughout the services in the Greek Orthodox church the novelist smiled. At the benediction the Countess was sobbing.

Los Angeles—Mrs. Carter de Haven, who says she had to use an old flivver while Betty Byrd of the movies rode in Carter's shiny new car, is to receive $400 a month alimony during divorce litigation. Carter made $37,000 last year.

Worcester, Mass.—Henry W. Sawyer, 81, five times a widower, must remain attached to his sixth wife, whom he met through a matrimonial journal. His divorce suit on the ground of cruelty failed. Mrs. Sawyer is 65.

New York—Mary Garden is bound for France and her distinctive sun baths. Two big Police dogs will guard her country home in Beaulieu while she—just herself—lies on a rock all day long.

Chicago—In the view of a juror who prevented the maximum penalty for some boy bandits, it is self-defense for a stick-up man to kill a victim who resists. "This is a free country," says Lawrence O'Toole, "and a man can go out and pull a stick-up if he can get away with it." Lawrence is now accused of contempt of court and perjury.

New York—They're swapping the helm and the throttle. Captain Cunningham of the Leviathan rode to Scranton and back in the cab of his friend, John Draney, locomotive engineer. As soon as John gets a chance he is to make a run on the liner.

Irvington, N. J.—Gassed in France Corporal Victor Tubo was carried back to safety by Private Stanley Leimer. They are square now. Leimer's life has been saved by a transfusion operation. The blood came from Tubo.

New York—After owning a pearl necklace for less than an hour Mrs. Frederic N. Watriss of Park avenue has lost it. Wearing the 93 pearls with diamond clasp as soon as she made the purchase, she went shopping elsewhere. When she arrived home the necklace had vanished.

WEST SAUGERTIES.

West Saugerties, May 3.—Mr. and Mrs. William Burns have gone for a visit to New York city.

Mrs. Tice, the teacher, called on Mrs. M. Cole and daughter, Emily, on Tuesday afternoon.

Jacob Rogers and family were Kingston visitors on Wednesday.

George Holmes of Catskill was a caller in this place on Wednesday afternoon.

Millard Burnett is in Newport, R. I., for a few days.

Mrs. M. Cole spent Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. M. Mott.

Ernest Teetsel and family of Albany were week-end visitors here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Solfliesch of Ridgefield Park, N. J., and a party spent the week end in their summer home.

Mr. Keirnan has returned to his home in New York.

Mrs. Daly is renovating her house and boarding house. Mrs. Dunn of Blue Mountain is helping her.

John Whitzman Jr., of North Bergen, N. J., was a week-end visitor of his father's here.

Mr. and Mrs. Noga, who have been spending the winter in New York city, have returned.

John Schalk is painting for Mrs. Hoyer in Blue Mountain.

Charles Diehl and party from New York city spent the week end in his bungalow.

Miss Cordes of Kingston was a week-end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Cordes.

Miss Nurnberg of New York city is the guest of her mother and sister, Lottie.

Mrs. John Schalk and Miss Antionette Pelissier were callers at the home of Mrs. M. Cole Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Pelissier and daughter, Antionette, have gone for a week's visit to New York city and places in New Jersey.

Gladys reminds us that if the size of women's clothing keeps decreasing, 1932 will be called leaf year.

WILL YOUR FEET MAKE LINES IN YOUR FACE?

IN spite of health habits and ice rubs and exercise, this stealthy enemy, creeping up from the arch of your foot, can cut deep "old age" lines in your face before you realize the cause.

Now is the time to forestall it. You do not wait until your teeth decay to use a tooth brush. Why then fail to give your feet the aid they need?

This does not mean the wearing of ungainly shoes. Far from it! Arch Preserver Shoes have the lines, the grace, the Paris-inspired styles that flatter your foot.

Yet every pair, high heeled or low, for house wear or golf course or ballroom, gives you these exclusive patented foot-youth features that you can find in no other shoe:

A concealed, built-in steel arch bridge, of patented size and shape, that takes all strain off the long arch of the foot and promotes an easy, graceful carriage.

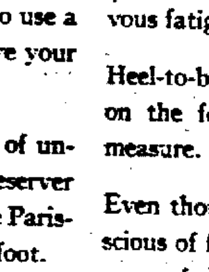

A specially modeled sole that supports the metatarsal arch.

A flat inner sole, crosswise, that prevents pinching or derangement of sensitive foot nerves, muscles and blood-vessels, thereby eliminating a common cause of nervous fatigue.

Heel-to-ball fitting that places the shoe on the foot as if made to individual measure.

Even though you never have been conscious of foot strain, you will feel a new sense of support and buoyancy the moment you try on Arch Preserver Shoes. You never have known such foot freedom.

Arch Preserver Shoes are as flexible as your foot itself. They bend freely with the foot at the ball, the only place the foot bends, and they are so good-looking that you would be glad to wear them for their style alone. Come in and see the new styles.

NEW HURLEY.

New Hurley, May 3.—An L. T. L. meeting was held at the schoolhouse last Friday afternoon.

Mr. Rodgers, who has a position in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., spent the week end with his wife and daughter in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cocks of Yonkers spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Garrison.

Mrs. Perry DuBois spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Henry Downs, in Jersey City, having been called there on account of the illness of her mother, Mrs. Tellerday.

Communion services will be observed in the church Sunday morning, May 6, at 11 o'clock, standard time.

Several from here attended the play "Buddies", given at Wallkill last Tuesday night.

Christian Endeavor meeting next Sunday evening, May 6, at 7:30, standard time. Topic, "How to Choose a Life Work." Eccl. 9:10. Thess. 4:9-12. (Consecration meeting).

The Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Isaac Sutton on Thursday afternoon, May 10, at 2 o'clock, standard time. Leader, Mrs. A. Van Arendonk; subject, "Indians." Bible word, "Faith".

On account of the storm last Saturday afternoon there were only a few of the members of the Young Woman's Club attended the meeting of the club held at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Thompson in Newburgh. The May meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Alex Thorne.

Overalls for Church Wear, Pastor Decrees

Henderson, Iowa.—The "Sunday-go-to-meetin' clothes" at the Henderson Christian church hereafter will consist, at the suggestion of Rev. G. D. Noland, of overalls for men and similar modest attire for the women. The pastor objects to the church being made a place for dress parade. He said many men kept away from services because they felt they could not dress up to the occasion.

"This is not to be a show," he explained, "I merely want the working people to know that my church and I are one of them." The minister himself plans to wear overalls.

COTTEKILL.

Cottekill, May 3.—There was a good attendance at the Cottekill Reformed Sunday school on April 29, also at the church service following. Sunday school on May 6, at 2 o'clock daylight saving time, in charge of L. R. Conner, superintendent. The lesson subject is "Greatness Through Service." New scholars and visitors are always welcome.

On Thursday evening, May 10, at eight o'clock, daylight saving time, in the Reformed Church hall, a series of stereoptican slides of "The Netherlands," will be shown. There will also be community singing, and games and contests at close. Home-made ice cream and cake will be on sale, also a parcel post sale. Admission free. Everyone is welcome. Proceeds for benefit of the Sunday school.

Preaching service in the Methodist Church on Sunday, May 6, at 2:15 p. m., standard time, (3:15 daylight saving time), the Rev. J. Holmes Smith in charge. His subject will be, "After Christ and With Christ." Mrs. Smith will bring the object lesson for the children, her subject being, "Excuses." Special singing. A cordial invitation extended to all.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Conner were entertained at dinner on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Barley.

Mrs. Margaret Schaefer entertained friends from New York city, and her son and family from Cornwall, over the week end.

ACCORD.

Accord, May 3.—Dr. Edgar Krom returned to his home on Tuesday evening after spending several weeks in Connecticut.

Mr. and Mrs. William Schuler moved to Kingston on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lawrence have left the employ of W. W. Voight and will go to Lake Mohonk for the summer.

"---Adopt the best

IT HAPPENED in those nearly forgotten "seventies". A decision to be made as to methods—improvements that meant greater satisfaction to telephone subscribers.

And Theodore N. Vail, at that time General Manager of the infant Bell Telephone Company, wrote: "..... we want in every case to adopt the best ..... Then, if there is anything better, we want to adopt that."

Far-reaching words, with a far-reaching effect. Words that definitely committed the infant industry to a policy of progress.

In the years that have passed, that policy has ever been the guiding spirit of the New York Telephone Company. Pointing the way to the most modern methods of manufacture, of maintenance, of administration—all working for the greater satisfaction of you, the subscriber.

And today, although Vail has passed on, one principle he laid down still remains, a beacon to progress, still burning with all its intensity of forty-nine years ago —"..... adopt the best."

What Congress Is Doing Today

(By The Associated Press)

Thursday:

Senate tackles tax reduction bill while House resumes farm relief debate under procedure permitting amendments.

Conferees on flood control meet to complete draft of their agreement.

Special Senate Presidential campaign expenditures committee considers plan of procedure.

House Naval construction bill taken up by Senate Naval committee.

Proposal to recondition two battleships comes before House Naval committee.

Other House committees hold hearings on proposed increase in barge line facilities and amendment to Federal Reserve act.

Wednesday:

Senate finished first week of debate on Boulder Canyon Dam bill and passed revised House postal rate reduction measure with amendment restoring 1920 rates on second class mail; House tentatively accepted Aswell motion striking out equalization fee from farm relief bill and adjourned to get its parliamentary bearings over the action.

Senate and House conferees reached agreement on flood control.

Both houses greeted German-Irish fliers.

Senate Teapot Dome committee concluded testimony of Harry F. Sinclair.

Special campaign expenditures committee organized with Steiwer, Republican, Oregon, as chairman, and promised early and impartial inquiry.

Get Breathing Space With "Pepped-Up" Air

New York.—Air, once considered the most abundant of life's necessities, is becoming precious. Conservation of ozone is the latest development in New York's campaign to provide breathing space for the 7,000,000 who are jammed together in the big city.

The lesson was first brought home in the trading room of the New York stock exchange, where more than a thousand men are huddled into one room for five hours each day.

At the end of a strenuous trading session, the members would go home with that limp feeling that is caused by inadequate ventilation. Conditions became so bad that a month ago science was called in to find a solution. Science brought a relief—so far as fresh air could relieve.

Two small boxes and electricity did the trick. The device, which "ionizes" the air, was installed by an ozone company.

The apparatus does not supply fresh air. Instead it takes old air, makes it fresh and keeps it that way. Air is passed through an electrical discharge of 10,000 volts in one of the "boxes" which measures about 5 feet by 4 feet.

In going through the electric current the air is "pepped up," takes on new vitality and is less susceptible to contamination by impurities which infest every room where a large number of persons gather. All the unhealthful elements are burned out of it.

The device in operation works through the ventilating system of the building.

Other big concerns are beginning to realize how rare good air is coming to be. J. P. Morgan & Co. have installed one of the devices and so has the National City bank.

Diamonds

A diamond in the rough may be any color, but diamonds in this state generally have a greasy luster. Different colors may be seen in the stone before it is polished, if the stone is fractured; but these colors are not the colors that are seen in cut and polished stones. The United States geological survey says that a diamond can be tested only by an expert.

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, May 3.—Beginning with Thursday evening, April 26, the Rev. Edwin D. Miner, pastor of the Reformed Church, started a series of addresses on famous missionaries. The first half of the hour is given to worship and praise and the last half devoted to the study of the missionary's life. The people who are to be studied are: Dr. Wilfred Grenfell of Labrador, William Carey of India, Dr. Laws of Livingstonia, Mary Slessor of Calabar, Dr. Torrence of Tiberias, Dr. Verbeck of Japan, Christina Forsyth of Fingoland, Jackson of Monkden, Maackey of Ugenda, Chalmers of New Guinea and Dr. David Livingston. These Thursday evening meetings begin at 7:30 and close promptly at 8:30. Everyone is invited to attend.

A new fraternity has been organized at the New Paltz Normal School, called the Sigma Pi Sigma. The members of this fraternity are only eligible when their scholarship averages a "B" for any three semesters. The initial meeting took place at 8:30 a. m. in Dean Fletcher's office Thursday morning. The charter members are Lillian Appel, Margaret Baker, Florence Bennett, Anna Boice, Marian Hoctor, Edna Krum, Geraldine Secor, Ethel Silkworth and Walter Taylor. The officers elected are: President, Walter Taylor; vice-president, Lillian Appel; secretary, Margaret Baker; treasurer, Geraldine Secor. E. V. Beebe was chosen as the faculty director of the organization, having been a member of such a fraternity in his school career. The constitution for this fraternity is being sent from the Geneseo Normal where the Grand Chapter of Sigma Pi Sigma is located. It is believed that membership in this fraternity will be an impetus and inspiration to all the New Paltz Normal students to get busy and raise their class standards to a high plane of scholarship.

The ninth district meeting of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs was held at the Palatine Hotel in Newburgh on Friday, April 20. Six members of the New Paltz Study Club were present and listened to an inspiring address by State President Mrs. William H. Purdy, who especially stressed the request that each club member should subscribe to Home and Club News. The National Association of Clubs will meet in San Antonio in May. Members may proceed from there to the Alaskan tour for $700. The Ossoli Women's Club Quartet entertained with charming music of spring. There was an intelligent discussion of the proposed new immigration law by Mrs. Zamboni, who spoke from the angle of a cultured Italian-American. The meeting broke up by singing Auld Lang Syne.

Suggestions are wanted for the 250th anniversary of the settlement of New Paltz. In the fall of 1577 the final papers were signed that gave the Twelve Patentees the title to the New Paltz Patent. The next spring they came with their possessions in three carts, stopping first on the west side of the creek near where the Arbuckle windmill now stands. Some time ago the New Paltz Independent published a letter from Judge Clearwater of Kingston to A. E. Jansen, president of the New Paltz Huguenot Society, in which Judge Clearwater urged the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the coming of the first settlers. Everyone to whom the subject has been mentioned thinks something should be done. Program suggestions are now asked for as it is thought the month of roses and laurel, late after the excitement of commencement is over, would be appropriate. Someone has proposed making it an Old Home Week for the gathering of the many sons and daughters of New Paltz ancestry, and Huguenot street would naturally be made the center of interest. Further details and plans are being looked forward to.

Miss Helen F. Roosa of Vassar Hospital Training School for Nurses, Poughkeepsie, spent the week end at her home in town.

Mrs. Elnora Lane of Lloyd is visiting in town.

Tuesday evening a dozen girl friends of Miss Delia Tamney gave her a surprise party, the occasion being her fourteenth birthday. Games were played and dancing enjoyed.

Anton Myers and Fred Yorks of Libertyville have been visiting in town.

Miss Ethel Wynkoop, night operator in the telephone office here, underwent an operation for the removal of her tonsils and adenoids at the Kingston City Hospital last Saturday. She is getting along nicely at her home in Tabasco Heights where she will remain until able to resume her duties in the New Paltz Office.

Herman DuBois is having rooms finished in the attic of his home.

Miss Edna Curry is doing her extension work in Poughkeepsie.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dirk and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Van Sicklen were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Royal Reed.

School meetings were held in all districts on Tuesday, May 1.

This season, which is the 50th, the Wildmere House at Minnewaska will be open from May 26 to October 1. The Cliff House with its more exposed location will be open from June 28 to September 10.

Read the Bible

Victor Hugo named the old prophet Isaiah as one of the six greatest literary men of all times. He can still be found in the world's best seller, which is the Bible. Read him now—both for ideas and for style. If you are interested in learning some things about the English language, and haven't a Bible in the house, better buy one. They are cheap.—Grove Patterson, in the Mobile Register.

MODENA.

Modena, May 3.—The annual school meeting was held at the school house Tuesday evening of the past week when officers were elected for the ensuing year.

Residents in Modena were saddened to hear of the sudden death of Mr. Wells of Walden, a father of Mrs. Paul Weber of this place. Mr. Wells was a resident of Modena, living on Oliver Church's farm.

Word has been received of the birth of a daughter, Sunday April 29, to Mr. and Mrs. Ray N. Brannan of Mineola, L. I. Mrs. Brannan is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Wager of this place.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Osterhoudt is seriously ill with pneumonia.

Mrs. Arthur Coy, who has been a patient at Dr. Sadlier's Sanitarium at Poughkeepsie for some time, returned to her home in this place, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ayers of Borden's Farms at Walkill, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Jenkins Sunday.

The Rev. Robert C. Reynolds of Margaretville, was a caller in this place Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lucy visited at the Luey home at Modena Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Decker entertained company at their home Sunday.

No Splinters

Little four-year-old Tommie, with his parents, was spending the week-end at the home of his aunt and uncle. The aunt, who is an excellent cook, had prepared a number of appetizing dishes, among them a delicious pudding flavored with coconut. When the Sunday evening lunch was being served, Tommie said in a low voice to his mother:

"I don't want any more of that pudding with splinters in it."

Kingston High Hits Hard in Win Over Beacon

Joyce Pitches Brilliant Game—Molyneaux Gets Four Hits and Minasian Comes Through With Homer—Locals Outhit Beacon, 13 to 6.

Under the influence of a kindly sun the Kingston High School nine exhibited a few of their new tricks at the Fair Grounds Wednesday afternoon and defeated the Beacon baseball squad by an 8 to 3 score.

Paul Joyce, on the mound for the Maroon and White, was in rare form and turned in a neat performance. He had nine strike outs and allowed six hits. Kingston gathered in 13 safe blows for its day's work.

Molyneaux led the attack with four hits out of five times at bat. In the third, Molyneaux, second man to bat, opened upon Burke for three bases. Merrill, who was first man to the plate in the fifth, hit safely over third and went home on Molyneaux's triple. Minasian, who also hit safely in the fifth which helped to break the lead gained by Beacon in their half of the fifth session, also came through with a home run in the eighth. He clouted the ball over the left field fence.

Kingston Scores In First.

Kingston, in the first inning scored their first tally. For a while, it looked as though Burke would never throw one over the plate. He walked Jones and had three balls on Merrill, when the latter hit to third. Jones was caught going to second, but Merrill beat the second baseman's throw to first. Molyneaux's first time at bat was the only time he failed to hit safely. He pounded a hot one to short but was thrown out at first. On this play, Merrill went to third, and galloped home on Macuga's wild throw. Joyce and Miller followed with safeties, but Minasian filed out to the second baseman.

The Maroon and White grasped the lead early in the game but was tied in the fourth due to Miller's three successive errors. Macuga, first man to face Joyce, flied to Jones. Piccone, second man to the plate, drove a hard one on the ground to Miller. He fumbled the ball and could not recover it in time even to try to throw his man out at first, but this was soon covered up for Piccone was caught trying to steal second. Miller, evidently became unsteady, for Sullivan hit a liner to him, which he let go through his legs into left field. Hyatt, next man to bat for Beacon, also drove one to Miller to have him commit his third error. On this last error, Sullivan scored. Miller's wild throw in the second inning, seemed to pave the way for his errors in the fourth.

Beacon Gets Lead in Fifth.

Cummings, Beacon's first man to bat in the fifth, smacked a safe one over short. Things looked promising for Beacon, for King drove a hot liner over second putting Cummings on third. Burke did his bit to win his game for he now came through with a single to right and Cummings scored. Phinley, the strikeout king for Beacon fanned. Macuga was thrown out at first by Miller. Piccone's single over third scored Burke the second run that inning and their final run of the game. Sullivan was thrown out and Piccone died on first.

Kingston Again Takes Lead.

Beacon's two run lead did not mean much for when the Kingston boys got their chance they made two hits yield three runs. Miller hit a fly just in back of third. The third baseman sprinted about thirty feet after the ball. He got there on time but fumbled it. With a man on, "Jay" Molyneaux stepped to the plate and clouted the ball over the center fielder's head for a three bagger. Miller trotted home. Joyce hit a liner to the pitcher which was fumbled. Minasian hit over third and Molyneaux scored. With a bullet like throw to second by Hyatt, Beacon's catcher, Minasian was caught going to second. Joyce scored on Clarke's hit Fuchsle was thrown out retiring the side.

Kingston did not stop at this for they scored one in the sixth and came through with three in the eighth.

Mummy Still in Tomb

The mummy of King Tut-Ankh-Amen was removed by Mr. Carter, under the permission of the Egyptian authorities, to the museum of Cairo for exhibition purposes. The inside of the golden coffin, the golden mask, with the shroud or pall, were also exhibited for a time and then Mr. Carter replaced the mummy in the sarcophagus or outside case in the tomb October 28, 1927.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press)

The shift of the scenes for the first intersectional series of 1928 in the major leagues finds John Joseph McGraw and Miller J. Huggins occupying the position to which they have become accustomed—first place in the standing of the clubs.

Before setting out for Cincinnati, where the Giants' western invasion will open tomorrow, McGraw watched his men round out the Brooklyn series by taking a third straight game from the Flatbush Fusileers. The victory was achieved on two hits, but the dimension of each of those drives happened to be just four bases.

Larry Benton set the Robins down without a struggle through the first seven innings, and the home run blows of Freddy Lindstrom and Art Jahn loomed large as the Robins began to make trouble in the eighth. Jumbo Jim Elliott had been tough, but not tough enough. He gave way to a pinch batsman in the tumultuous Brooklyn eighth, and old Bill Doak pitched the Giant half without further damage, although the Polo Grounders did add a purely decorative single to their two home runs.

Then in the ninth with the score still standing at 2 to 0, the Robins set about stirring up real trouble. Tyson and Hendrick singled and Benton walked Bressler and Bissonette, forcing one run home and leaving the bases filled with two out. In this emergency, Benton fanned Ricondo, who had wasted a two bagger in the eighth.

Joe Dawson, the Louisville recruit, cornered most of the glory as the Pirates nosed out the Cubs, 9 to 8, in the tenth inning at the expense of Artie Nehf. Joe did nothing much but hold the Cubs to two small hits through the last four rounds and smack a triple which decided the game in the tenth. It was the third straight Pittsburgh victory over the Cubs.

Cincinnati made it two straight over the Cardinals yesterday, while the Phillies got even with the Braves for certain past misdeeds. The Phils finally won a game 9 to 3.

The Yankees were pounded 9 to 5, in the American League, but then they were about due. A New York winning streak of seven and a Washington losing surge of eight disappeared at one and the same time.

The Cleveland Indians failed to profit by the Yankee shortcomings, as the "Fifty-fifty" Browns took their turn at winning. Owen Carroll turned in a fine game against the White Sox, permitting George Moriarty to escape St. Vitus Dance for another day. The Tigers won eased up by 7 to 1.

RONDOUTS TO MEET ROSENDALE SUNDAY.

The Rondout A. C. baseball team will meet the Rosendale nine at Block Park Sunday at 3:30 p. m. The tilt is expected to be a fast one as the Rondouts generally keep opponents performing in flashy style, while they will be in shape to display mid-season form. Rost and Doyle will be ready to take the mound for the Rondouts with Joe Dulin as catcher. Winkky and Peterson will make up the battery for the Rosendalers.

Six Moist Ball Hurlers Left

ANOTHER famous tribe—the spitball pitchers of baseball—is rapidly becoming extinct. Now that Urban Shocker has made up his mind to moisten bank notes in his St. Louis radio shop in preference to wetting the old spheroid, the ranks of this once great galaxy of hurlers has dwindled to a mere half dozen.

"Red" Faber.

Only eight years ago the major leagues decided by concurrent action to ban freak deliveries and agreed that seventeen bona fide spitball pitchers then performing in the big circuits would be the only ones exempt.

Of that number the National had eight, namely, Bill Doak, Shuffling Phil Douglas, Dana Fillingim, Ray Fisher, Marvin Goodwin, Burleigh Grimes, Clarence Mitchell and Wick Rudolph. Today only Doak of the Robins, Mitchell of the Phillies and Grimes of the Pirates survive.

With the passing of Shocker of the Yankees, three of the moist ball flingers are left in the American league. When the rule was passed in 1920, there were A. W. Ayers, Ray Caldwell, Stanley Coveleskie, Urban Faber, H. B. Leonard, Jack Quinn, Allan Russell, Shocker and Allan Sothoron.

Coveleskie, now battling for a regular berth with the Yankees, Faber of the White Sox and Quinn of the Athletics remain on the American league active list. Sothoron, formerly with the Browns, is a Cardinal coach.

The ancient Polish heaver, Coveleskie, turned in two good performances during the southern training grind and seems assured of some sort of a contract with the world champions.

Jack Quinn, the Methusaleh of baseball, is entering his twenty-fifth year on the diamond. Now forty-three years old, Quinn began tossing his puzzling spitter with the old Yankees. It is an odd twist of fate that Quinn in his early major league days had his poorest luck against Connie Mack's Athletics of whom he is at present a member.

Faber, Mitchell, Doak and Grimes seem to be ready for at least another season, but 1929 may bring further reductions in the fast-thinning line of these moundsmen who acquired their skill in the bygone days when chewing tobacco was considered an art in itself.

PAN-AMS TO TAKE ON BLUE SOX SUNDAY

The Pan-Am baseball team is getting ready for a tough battle with the Blue Sox, Sunday at the Saugerties road diamond. The tilt between the two Kingston aggregations is scheduled for 3 p. m. and it is expected that there will be a goodly assemblage of fans present to witness the game. Carpenter is slated to do the pitching for the Pan-Ams, while it is expected that Lewis will take the mound for the Blue Sox. Williams will also be on hand to hurl for the Sox should his services be required.

Sport Slants

By Alan J. Gould,
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

New York, May 3 (AP).—No early season college regatta in many a moon has attracted such widespread interest as the triangular contest this Saturday on the Schuylkill river among the varsity crews of Yale, Columbia and Pennsylvania.

Not only is it the first racing test of the spring for these three boatloads, but in one and the same regatta, for the first time, the coaching systems of the new eastern Bib Three will be subjected to test.

These three guiding minds are "Young Dick" Glendon, who turned out the Intercollegiate Championship Eight at Columbia last year; Ed Leader, who Eli varsities have lost only two races in the last five years; and Rusty Callow, at the Pennsylvania helm for the first time after five years of brilliant success with Washington's oarsmen.

It will be the famous Glendon stroke against a brace of varieties that have Washington background, for both Leader and Callow come from the same school of rowing in the far west.

Yale has won this three-cornered regatta, now involving the possession of the Blackwell Challenge Cup, five successive years, but it will be an upset if they beat Columbia this week. Penn is the rank outsider.

These early spring regattas are not always convincing but it appears that Columbia's veteran material and experience are sufficient to offset any conditioning handicaps that the New Yorkers have labored under.

Columbia has six veterans of last year's Poughkeepsie triumph while Pennsylvania has only three survivors of its 1927 crew and Yale one, outside the coxswain, Captain Pete Stewart.

No all-round track and field star has shown more improvement in the last year or so than Kenneth Doherty, the slim, 21 year old Detroit product.

Doherty was runner-up to the veteran Tony Plansky in the first Olympic decathlon tryout at the Penn relays and should have little difficulty earning a place on the Olympic team in the final trials at New Haven July 4.

Doherty was an athletic novice when he was taken in hand by the Detroit City College coach, D. L. Holmes, three years ago. To show how he has improved in this short period, here are some of the advances he has made in various features of the decathlon test: Shot-put, 35 feet to 41 feet, 11 inches; discus, 100 to 131 feet; javelin, 142 to 191 feet; pole vault, 10 feet to 11 feet, 4 inches; high jump, 5 feet, 7 inches to 6 feet, one inch; broad jump, around 18 feet to 22 feet, 8 inches.

Doherty also can go the high hurdles in 16 seconds, the low hurdles in 26 seconds, 100 yards in 10 3-5 and the quarter mile in 52 4-5 seconds. These are his best marks but they are just about good enough to win any all-round tussle if the Detroit youth happens to hit top stride on the proper day.

Card Complete For Armory Bouts

Samuel J. Riber, hailed as Kingston's Joe Humphries, will do the announcing at the American Legion bouts, under the auspices of the 156th Field Artillery in the local armory on Friday night, May 11. The card which Riber will announce on May 11 is expected to be the best one of the season.

The main bout of eight rounds between Jack "Red" Moshier of Newburgh and Willie Herman of New York city is forecast as a big attraction. Moshier has conquered many of the National Guard's toughest men, but he will meet in Herman an opponent that is well calloused.

Joe Vosdick of Saugerties will try to put Frankie Ponzo of the 369th Infantry away in the early stages of their meeting. Vosdick has one of the most effective lefts of any battler in this vicinity. Ponzo, besides being a hard puncher, can take it in fine style. However, he does not contemplate being the target for Vosdick's wallops, which means that the Saugertiesan will have to fight hard to take the bacon. Ponzo appeared here during the present boxing season and displayed a brand of wares that pleased the fans. This will be the semi-final.

Stanley Reid of Newburgh will meet Georgie Forbes of New York city in a six rounder; Roy VanBuren is scheduled to go six rounds with Georgie Hill of the 212th Regiment and Dewey VanBuren is booked for a four rounder with Eddie Boyer of New York. Charlie Melvin of the 156th Field Artillery, here, will make his debut against Tommy Devine of New York in the four round curtain raiser.

Central Team To Celebrate

The starting of the Central Baseball Club's season will be fittingly celebrated Saturday before that team takes on the West New York, N. J., Red Sox. The program marking the debut of the locals will start with a band concert by the Citizens' Band at 1 p. m., which will last until 1:30. A parade will then be conducted through the city, headed by the band, which will lead a line of prominent Central Business Men from Pine Grove avenue, downtown, uptown and thence to the Athletic Field. Mayor Edgar J. Dempsey will toss out the first ball. The game, which will be refereed by Pete Jordan behind the plate and George Cragan on the bases, is expected to be a flashy contest.

CHARLEY VON REEDEN AT MILLER'S EDDYVILLE CAMP.

Charley Von Reeden, bantamweight boxer who defeated Kid Rash and Charles Pettibone at the local armory during the current boxing season, has joined Walk Miller's stable and is now training at his Eddyville Health Camp for a series of bouts against some of Australia's best bantams.

This clever boxer, who has been booked for five fights in kangarooland by Walk Miller, has chalked up one of the most enviable records in the realm of fistiana. He has 42 consecutive victories to his credit and under the guidance and management of Miller will aspire to title hopes on his return from Australia.

The many friends and admirers of the little southerner, who hails from Atlanta, may see him in daily workouts with Tommy Jones, Clyde Hull, Billy Grimes, Manuel Quintero and many other boxers, who are training for future engagements at the Eddyville camp. Ted Achilles will supervise Von Reeden's training and condition him prior to his departure for Australia.

Clermonts to Practice.

The Clermonts will meet tonight at 6 o'clock after which a practice session will be held at Hasbrouck Park. It is the desire of Captain Vic Spait that every member of the team be present to get into shape for the game scheduled with the Goldenrods, Sunday.

Eyesight of Snakes

Snakes do not actually go blind periodically. The belief that they go blind during dog days is based on the fact that their eyes have a milky appearance shortly before the slough is cast. This, according to the United States biological survey, is due to the separation of the outer layer of epidermis from the cornea. The vision is greatly impaired while the snake is passing through this period.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

Reception Wednesday night was good but not so good that it has not been better. The tooth brush tooters, the tires, eliminator and awning programs were clear except when a very loud and obstreperous buzzer interfered and the Madrigal Quartet sang sweetly. The buzzer was of the snarling variety and worked only at intervals, but very violently while it did work. At times there was a little static.

Reception this morning was very clear and strong.

Nanette Guilford, Metropolitan "baby" star, and Lewis James, popular radio tenor, will be the vocal artists of a Shubert program in the Cadillac-LaSalle hour of the General Motors family party on Monday evening, May 7. A symphony orchestra under Roderic Graham and Goldman's band under Edwin Franko Goldman will provide the instrumental background.

"The One Hoss Shay", by Oliver Wendell Holmes transcribed into a "Soconyland Sketch", will be presented over the radio Tuesday evening, May 8, at 7:30 p. m. daylight time.

"Common Cold" Cured by Freezing Process

"Feed a cold and starve a fever" is an old folk saying, but it seems that now the word "feed" should be changed to "freeze," seeing that we have good authority for stating that the best place for curing a cold, next to the Arctic regions, is the refrigerating chamber of a cold-storage establishment. In short, the best cure for a cold is—more cold.

The members of the various Antarctic expeditions associated with the names of Scott and Shackleton never caught cold when the temperature was 40 below zero, but the moment they put into a New Zealand or Australian port they began to sneeze. Ranchers and farmers in the northwest of Canada will testify to the fact that "colds," as we understand them, are almost unknown, although the cold is as intense at times as it is anywhere on the globe.

Thus it is a possibility of the future that, instead of proceeding to some hospital, the influenza patient will call an airplane off the rank and fly to Spitzbergen, Greenland, Iceland, or some other sanatorium for coughs, colds, and bronchitis, situated under the pleasant lee of an iceberg!

Cigar Almost Threw Columbus Off Poise

It is said that when Columbus stepped ashore at our Mole St. Nicholas, about 10 a. m. on the bright sixth of December, 1492, he was met by the cacique or chief, of that Carib district of Marien. The chief's name was Guarkanagarik and he was smoking a cigar at the time. Carib etiquette and that nice hospitality for which Haiti has ever been remarkable prompted the cacique to offer Columbus a smoke.

It was the first time the discoverer had even seen anyone emitting smoke from his mouth and nostrils and the experience so unnerved him that he almost forgot "to take possession." This is said to be the only time in the admiral's long career of discovery when he nearly failed in his important duty. There is a picture extant, however, which shows clearly that, after a moment's distress, the admiral braced up and did "take possession" in the usual manner, for Ferdinand and Isabella.—Hygeia Magazine.

Reason for Long Night

As the axis of the earth is inclined at an angle of 23½ degrees, the Arctic circle is not illuminated by rays from the sun during the winter period. The sun is below the horizon practically the whole of the 24 hours of the day, only just touching it at one moment. In June the converse is true, the sun remaining above the horizon during the whole 24 hours and just touching it at one moment. The period of darkness in winter persists for the whole six months between September and March. On March 21 the North pole is on the boundary between light and darkness and from that date until September 23 it remains in the light. There is, therefore, a day of six months and a night of six months at the North pole.

Creed vs. Deed

The curious influence that men's creeds exert over their minds is carried over bodily into our social thoughts and behavior, says a writer in Scribner's Magazine. Broadly speaking, men live by their wits as individuals, while as a society they live by their creeds. For society deals largely with generalities, and it is in dealing with generalities that a man consults his creed.

We have seen that when a man follows the dictates of his creed, he will often adopt general ideas and doctrines that are in direct conflict with the specific dictates of his mind and conscience. Hence, society commits itself to many propositions that are by no means representative of the way people actually feel and think.

Hummel Boys Concert Enjoyed

Music lovers of Kingston, who have been interested in Earle Hummel, violinist, and Stanley Hummel, pianist, since they were tiny lads living in Kingston, were out in full force Wednesday evening to hear these two young men play a program of music which they will repeat in Town Hall, New York, in a short time. Because they have not been heard together since they both have grown and developed to a marked degree both physically and artistically, their friends were the more anxious to hear them, and they have gone far in their musical careers in the past few years since they have been making their home in Albany. Earle has gained a breadth and stability of musicianship in addition to the amazing technique that he had while Stanley's brilliance of performance that sometimes ran away with the little lad is now his servant rather than his master, and his poetic interpretation is bound to appeal warmly to any audience whether musicians or music lovers. His sympathetic accompanying, supporting but never covering the soloist's work, was noteworthy as being unusually good for one so evidently possessed of the artist's spirit himself.

The Concerto in B Minor by D'Ambrosio, for violin, made a heavy demand upon both the audience and the artist as a first number on the program, before the musicians and their audience were fully attuned, but the playing of it was really admirable, particularly in the last two movements.

Stanley played the lovely music of Mendelssohn with rare insight and interpretation bringing forth a beautiful broad tone, as shown in The Prelude and Fuge and the Etude in A Minor. The three Chopin numbers —Nocturne, Waltz, Op. 69, No. 2, and Etude, Op. 10, No. 4, were decidedly brilliant.

The poetic spirit of his interpretation was particularly noticeable in the last group that he played, as was the fine sureness of his more rapid passages shown in "Dance of the Gnomes," by Liszt and the "Concert Arabesques", "By the Beautiful Blue Danube" by Strauss-Schultz-Evler. The "Fairy Tale," Op. 29, No. 1 by Medtner was lovely with the "Etude," by Gabrilowitsch, one of the most all-round musicianly numbers that Stanley played. He was very enthusiastically received, and gave one encore number.

In his first group Earle got in close touch with his audience. His playing of the "Grand Adagio," by Glazounow, was appealing; "The Flight of the Bumble Bee", by Rimsky-Korsakov-Hartman, was a bit of technical yet delightful brilliancy. In the "Berceuse", by Juon, Earle make full use of his skill of bowing and fingering, not merely to astonish but to give to his hearers a lovely tone poem, with heart in it. Grace and charm were in the "Minuett", by Porpora-Kreisler.

Earle's last group of violin numbers included "Nocturne", by Boulanger, an early number; "Chorus of Dervishes", by Beethoven-Auer, which Earle made charming both because of and in spite of its outstanding technical difficulties, and demands; Hebrew Lullaby, by Achron-Auer, and finally, perhaps Earle's best number of the evening, with his audience warmly with him—The Pagan-ini-Kreisler "Etude No. 26." In response to the continuing applause Earle played a little gem of a number, "Waves at Play", by Grasse, which brought the program to a close.

SCHOOLBOY WISDOM

These examples of "howlers" may be added to the collection already published:

"The masculine of vixen is vixon."

"Paloonius was a mythical manage."

"Shakespeare lived at Windsor with his merry wives."

"The king wore a scarlet robe trimmed with vermin."

"A Soviet is a cloth used by waiters in hotels." (A serviette.)

"Wolsey saved his life by dying on the way from York to London."

"The minister of war is the clergyman who preaches to soldiers."

"The immortal William is a name applied to the former German emperor."

"Finally James II gave birth to a son, so the people turned him off the throne."

"Barbarians are things put into bicycle wheels to make them run smoothly."

"After twice committing suicide, Cowper lived till 1800, when he died a natural death."

"The sun never sets on the British empire because the empire is in the east and the sun sets in the west."

"Queen Elizabeth rode through Coventry with nothing on and Sir Walter Raleigh offered her his cloak."

"Henry VIII was very cruel to Anne Boleyn and ironed her." (The history had said, "He pressed his suit on her.")—Living Church.

SCRAPS

More than two-thirds of the fatal cases of measles occur in children under three years of age.

Paintings on rocks, discovered in South Africa, bear a resemblance to the art of far-away Egypt.

Skeletons of about 80,000 horses were found near a settlement of ancient men at Solutre, France.

In tracing the careers of 100,000 automobiles, it was found that 5,000 of them had lasted twelve years.

A cow belonging to Thomas McGlone, of Harrodsburg, Ky., died suddenly. A post-mortem examination revealed that the animal had eaten a quilt.

Footprints on bricks found during excavations at Belsan are said to be the prints of a child five years old who walked across the soft, half-dried brick 3,000 years ago.

A method of treating seed corn with chemical dust, developed by government scientists, results in increased yield of one to twelve bushels an acre at a cost of five cents an acre.

The twilight beetle, discovered on Long Island in 1923, apparently came from Japan and, though it is not yet notorious, scientists say it is spreading rapidly and may become a national pest.

SEEDS OF WISDOM

Woodstock Wants Larger School

The annual school meeting for Woodstock School District No. 2 was held on Tuesday night at the public schoolhouse with 25 people present. Henry Peper was elected chairman of the meeting. At the election George Burt was re-elected trustee and Bruce Herrick collector. Reports showed approximately $900 balance in the treasury at the close of the fiscal year. The meeting voted to raise by taxes $4,000 for the coming school year.

The matter of the crowded condition of the present school building came up for discussion. It was stated that the present rooms are 50 per cent overcrowded at the present time. To offset this plans were made for the purchase of additional land adjoining the present property, and for the building of two rooms with the approval and cooperation of the State Educational Department. For this purpose a committee of two was appointed to secure the land. A committee, consisting of William S. Elwyn, George Neher and George Burt, was appointed to confer with the State Education Department regarding additional rooms and to report back to a special school meeting to be called at a later date for this hearing.

Race Driver to Perform Here

Ralph Mulford, the well known race driver, noted for his winning smile as well as his prowess at the wheel, will be in Kingston on May 16 looking for difficult hills to climb in his Chandler car.

Mr. Longenecyke, the local Chandler dealer, says that during the past year Mulford has climbed practically every noted hill in America and his performance on West Chestnut street hill on May 16 will be watched with much interest by local fans.

Important hill climb records held by Chandler include Pikes Peak, Mt. Diablo, Mt. Wilson, Mt. Baldy and Mt. Washington, Vermont, and now Mulford will try and set a new mark for West Chestnut street hill. The Chandler car which Mulford is driving is a stock Chandler in every particular.

Luminous Worms

That earthworms turn into lightning bugs or fireflies is a common myth. The firefly is a species of beetle which passes through a larva stage. Adults, larvae and eggs are all luminous. There is also a glow-worm, an entirely different species. None of these luminous creatures are in any way related to the earthworm.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Grocery Men Enjoy Banquet

Wednesday evening the managers of the various Grand Union grocery stores in the district from Walden to Ravena, enjoyed a banquet at Cuneo's Hotel on Broadway. C. W. Gray of this city, district manager, was recently awarded first prize for the work accomplished by his division. Mr. Gray when notified of having won the prize immediately announced a prize contest between the men of his own division, and first place was won by Frank Van Etten, of the Wall street store.

This district includes stores at Walden, Maybrook, Rosendale, New Paltz, Saugerties, Catskill, Ravena, and Kingston. Among the managers present at the banquet on Wednesday evening were Roger M. Kilmer of Ravena, C. B. Irwin of Catskill, Paul Spoteholts of Catskill, James Tator of Catskill, Wilson Mack of Walden, D. Holmstead of Walden, William Flemming of Rosendale, E. M. Hulburt of New Paltz, and the following from this city: George N. Flynn, C. H. Bonesteel, M. Perry, J. Vosdick, J. Vosdick, Jr., Frank Elmendorf, Irving Krom, Andrew Reis, Frank Van Etten, George Kuenen, Robert Baines, Floyd Weeks, George Bolaklewicz and C. W. Gray.

Now is the time to STORE your FURS

Cold Fur Storage

PROTECTS YOUR FURS

Is the fur coat which you so carefully selected, which you value more than most any other of your possessions to be left to the ravages of moths, dust, fire, or theft?

Our fur storage vaults offer the most convenient and economical protections possible. For a very trivial amount we safeguard your furs completely for next season's wear.

Write or telephone us to send our messenger. Act just as soon as the weather becomes warm so that the moths and other ruinous pests cannot have the opportunity to begin their work of destruction.

ALL FUR GARMENTS ARE INSURED IN THE COMPANIES OF A. J. BURNS AND McENTEE & SON.

Remodeling

During the summer months, our not-buying season, we offer to repair and remodel your furs at reduced rates. We already have secured the designs favored by fashion for the coming fall and are prepared to change your coat into one of the new, smart styles most suitable for you.

Night Telephone Rates Unchanged

Public Service Commission Suspends Proposed New Tariff By Which Reduced Rates Would Be Eliminated Between Summer Resorts and Greater New York in Summer Months.

Albany, May 3 — The Public Service Commission has suspended until September 10, unless otherwise ordered, a tariff schedule filed by the New York Telephone Company, proposed as effective on May 14, which would eliminate between May 25 and September 10 of each year reduced rates for night telephone messages, in either direction, between certain summer resorts in Saratoga, Schoharie, Delaware, Ulster, Greene, Sullivan and Dutchess counties and all telephone exchanges in Greater New York.

Under the present schedule in force there is a reduction of 50 per cent over the day station to station rates, in either direction, between the communities in the seven upstate counties and Greater New York between 8:30 p. m. and midnight, and 75 per cent reduction when a call is put through between midnight and 4:30 a. m.

The schedules which have been suspended propose to eliminate, in both directions, the night reduced rates between all Greater New York exchanges and the following summer resort sections:

Saratoga Springs, in Saratoga county.

Sharon Springs in Schoharie county.

Fleischmanns in Delaware county.

Pine Hill, Phoenicia, Kerhonkson, and Ellenville in Ulster county.

Windham, Cairo, Catskill, Jewett, Hunter and Tannersville in Greene county.

Roscoe, Livingston Manor, Liberty, Hurleyville, Woodridge, Lake Huntington, North White Lake, Monticello, South Fallsburgh, Bloomingburgh, and Wurtsboro in Sullivan county.

Hopewell Junction in Dutchess county.

The commission, on its own motion, will enter upon a hearing for the submission of evidence concerning the lawfulness of the proposed withdrawal of the night telephone charges, the rights and interests of the public appearing to be injured by the change proposed by the telephone company. The company is directed to make no change in its tariffs during the suspension period.

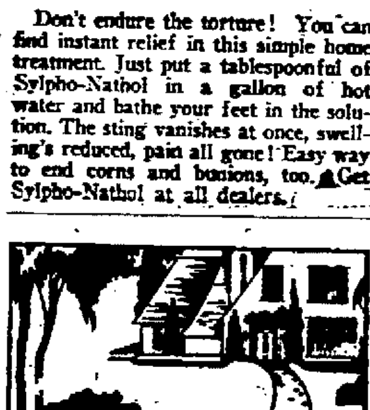

The hearing will be at the office of the commission, 100 State street, Albany, on May 10 at 2 p. m.

Wiltwyck Hose Meeting.

The members of Wiltwyck Hose Company, No. 1, will hold a regular meeting this evening. Final arrangements for the firemen's convention which will be held here in June will be discussed. All members are asked to be present.

A LUXURIANT LAWN —Three Weeks Before Your Neighbors

Golf clubs must keep their costly greens healthy and luxuriant throughout the season.

Scraggly grasses and disease-ravaged areas are no longer tolerated.

For several years, famous clubs have used an amazing treatment to keep their fine greens in the pink of condition.

NOW, this treatment, NU-GREEN, is available for your lawns. NU-GREEN performs a double service—never offered in any other lawn treatment.

First, it brings to your lawns the stimulating nutriment which produces early, vigorous growth and insures hardy, full development.

Second, it affords soil disinfection which protects the grasses against "Brown-Patch" and other destructive diseases.

This spring, give your lawn a three weeks' start over your neighbor's—and keep it luxuriant all season.

Fine for plants and shrubs, too. Brings blooms earlier; makes foliage greener—and protects against many soil diseases.

NU-GREEN is clean and easy to use. Simply add water and apply with sprinkling can.

U. S. VETERAN ENDS LIFE IN BELLEAU WOOD CEMETERY

Leaves Papers That Indicate War Memories Brought Him to Battle Scene to Kill Himself.

Paris.—At the base of the shaft erected to the Second division in the American Military cemetery, at Belleau Wood, the body of Ernest Scricker, a naturalized American, who had served in the American expeditionary force, was found. By his side was a service automatic, and letters in his pocket established that his death was by suicide. Scricker's body was found by the superintendent of the cemetery when he opened the gates.

Papers in his pocket and facts learned concerning his actions since arriving in France indicate that some war memories brought him to the battle scene to end his life. Army discharge papers which he had brought from America showed he was demobilized from the engineering corps at Tacoma, Wash., April 1, 1919. He took his life on the ninth anniversary of that event.

Scricker's army papers said he was a member of the engineering corps unassigned and nothing was found here to show that he had fought at Belleau Wood.

Scricker was a Swiss. Papers showed he was born September 30, 1891, at St. Gall. He spoke French well. Pinned to his army papers was a naturalization certificate, showing he became an American citizen the day before his discharge from the army.

Also pinned to his army papers was a letter to the Paris post of the American Legion asking pardon for the trouble he was about to cause the members of the post and requesting that they arrange his burial on French soil. One letter said he had come thousands of miles to see France for the last time. His passport gave his home as Clayton, Wis., and his occupation as a mechanic. The only name of a relative found was that of a sister, Martha B. Scricker.

American travelers' checks for $350 were in his pocket. The letter was turned over to the Paris Legion post.

Yankee Woman Seeking Snakes in Singapore

Singapore. — Mrs. Estelle Lyle, known in the United States as the "Texas show woman" and an animal trainer and collector of long experience, has arrived in Singapore to look for tropical snakes. Mrs. Lyle operates an animal farm and snake ranch in Texas. "I must have 1,500 rattlesnakes there now and I don't know how many other kinds of snakes," she said. "We breed them to extract poison for serums and to sell to zoos and shows. I own the largest snake in America. He is a python 33 feet long and weighs 402 pounds. I have had him for 22 years. I have also half a dozen other pythons varying between eight and ten feet in length.

"I have come here to travel around and see what I can find in the way of unusual animals, especially snakes. If I cannot find what I want I shall go into the jungles with the natives and try to get what I want. In fact, I would like to try to rope a python. I have roped rattlesnakes in Texas and I don't see why I shouldn't do it with pythons. You wait until the brute raises its head and you throw the loop of the rope over it, just as you would a steer."

Singapore is one of the main centers of supply for the zoos of the world. Such famous collectors as Frank Buck of Dallas and San Francisco make annual visits to Singapore and take back to America hundreds of animals of all descriptions. Mrs. Lyle, however, is the first lady member of this unusual profession to visit Singapore. She was interested to learn that juicy python steaks are occasionally on sale in the most exclusive restaurants in Chinatown of Singapore.

Patch of Whiskers Is Much Photographed

Ann Arbor, Mich.—The most thoroughly bephotographed patch of whiskers that ever grew on a human chin was displayed on the screen here before the meeting of the American Association of Anatomists by Prof. R. J. Terry, Arthur C. Pillsbury and George A. Seib of Washington university and the Missouri Botanical Garden, St. Louis.

The picture was made with a movie camera "shooting" through a high-power microscope. Three minutes after shaving one of the experimenters had a square centimeter—about a quarter of a square inch—of his razored epidermis photographed. Thereafter every two hours for four days and nights the camera ticked off the growth of his stubble—always the same square centimeter.

Sisters Make $2,400 From Tobacco Patch

Winston-Salem, N. C.—Farm relief is no problem so far as Delia and Etta Bradley, sisters, are concerned.

They have just deposited $2,400 as proceeds from a tobacco crop harvested on three and a half acres of land, which they planted, worked, gathered, cured and sold without aid or advice.

When they are not farming the sisters are occupied in the city, where Delia is a teacher in the high school and Etta a student in a business college.

Make Way division—W. H. Niles, manager; Captains Clarence Wolfersteig, George Lowe, James Scott, Arthur Quimby, George Hendrickson.

The members of the executive committee have made considerable progress in getting everything ready for the campaign, which will start on Wednesday evening, May 9.

City Officials In Albany Today

Mayor E. J. Dempsey, C. Ray Everett, president of the common council, and Corporation Counsel Harry H. Flemming are in Albany today on the city's business. While there they expected to call at the office of the Public Service Commission to ascertain any information that may be available in regard to the proposed plan to eliminate the Broadway crossing. A hearing in the matter will be held at the court house here on May 17. The city officials will also ask to view any proposed plan that the Public Service Commission may have on file at the office.

Cost Little to Produce

The approximate cost of the production of 2-cent stamps per thousand is 6½ cents.

Here's Speedy Relief From Bunion Pains and Soft Corns

Get a two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) today. Every well stocked drug store has this, with the distinct understanding that your money will be cheerfully returned if it does not reduce the inflammation, soreness, and pain much quicker than any remedy you ever used.

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the inflammation is gone.

And as for Soft corns a few applications each night at bed time and they just seem to shrivel right up and scale off.

No matter how discouraged you have been with pads, shields, or other applications, if you have not tried Emerald Oil then you have something to learn.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of essential oils with camphor and other antiseptics so marvelous that thousands of bottles are sold annually for reducing varicose or swollen veins. Dedrick's Drug Store and every good druggist guarantees the first bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil to end your foot troubles or money back.

LARGE AUDIENCE SEES "POLLY WANTS A CRACKER"

The young folks of the Rondout Presbyterian Church under the auspices of the Westminster Guild of the church presented the amusing comedy "Polly Wants a Cracker" in the chapel of the Church Wednesday evening before a large and appreciative audience. Fred L. Van Deusen as Jeffrey Wayne; Tom Rowland as Thomas Pratt; Arthur Scott as Inspector Doran; Mrs. Lillian Schutt as Mrs. Wayne; Miss Kathleen Meeker as Mary Wayne; Miss Helen Beeres as Lucerne Neville, and Miss Ethel Skelton as Nora, all made hits and acted their parts like veterans. At the close of the play refreshments were served. The proceeds are to be used to defray the expenses of the delegates to the summer conference.

John Old Scout! You're Growing As Thin As A Rail

He used to be such a manly looking fellow with good features and a fine figure, but now his meagre flesh hardly covers his bones—He is absolutely skinny.

Pretty tough on John to have his friends talking about him that way, but the health resorts and the Mountains are populated with just such Johns who keep getting thinner and thinner without trying to help themselves.

That's why every underweight man and woman should take advantage of McCoy's generous offer.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been shortened—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at any drug store in America.

The SANDMAN STORY

BARNYARD TALK

"CACKLE, cackle, cackle," said Miss Hen.

"Cock-a-doodle-do, cock-a-doodle-do, cock-a-doodle-do," said Mr. Rooster.

"Cock-a-doodle-do, cock-a-doodle-do, cock-a-doodle-do, I wish the same to you," said Red Top, the rooster.

"Cackle, cackle," said Mrs. Gray Hen.

"Cluck, cluck," said Mrs. White Hen.

"Cackle, cackle," said Miss Fidgety Featherdale Hen.

"Quack, quack," said Mr. Duck.

"Quack, quack," said Sir David Duck.

"Quack, quack, quack," said the little ducklings.

"Quack, quack," said their fond mother.

"Quack, quack," said Mrs. Indian Runner Duck.

"Gobble, gobble," said Mr. Turkey.

"Neigh, neigh," said the horse

"Moo, moo," said Mrs. Cow.

"Baa, baa, baa," said Mrs. White Sheep.

"Bow, wow, wow," said the dog.

"Baa, baa," said Billy Goat in a different tone of voice from that of Mrs. Sheep.

"Chirp, chirp," said little Mr. Robin as he sat on the branch of a tree.

"Squirm, squirm," said the little worm, "this is no place for me."

And to prove that the worm was right Mr. Rooster picked it up from the ground and handed it most politely to Mrs. White Hen who swallowed it and cackled her thanks.

"Who has got the food?" asked Brother Bacon.

"No one has any food, now," said Mr. Duck. "The time for breakfast has not as yet arrived."

"How gorgeously and grandly and magnificently and beautifully you talk, quack, quack," said Mrs. Duck.

"You flatter me, quack, quack," said Mr. Duck.

"Not at all, it is the truth," said Mrs. Duck.

"But what does all this friendly word business mean?" asked Sammy Sausage.

"Here I was having a nice dream of a castle built of food and I awoke to hear every one talking and chatting and I thought to myself:

"'Ha, ha, grunt, grunt, the food has come.'"

"No food has come as yet," said Red Top. "We are all hungry and ready for a good breakfast it is true. But it will not be long now."

"Why are you all talking in such a friendly fashion when there isn't even any food to talk about?" asked Pinky Pig.

"Of course, Red Top," said Porky Pig, "you have always had the habit of getting up at crack of dawn, as the saying is.

"You take after your father and his father before him and his father before him—and I don't know how far back.

"But they have all been early risers. Much too early risers to suit lots of folks."

"Well, I won't change the custom of the family, for it would be making out the family to be of little importance," said Red Top.

"Still I don't understand why you are all strutting about and talking?" said Sammy Sausage.

"You woke up the whole pig pen," said Mrs. Pink Pig.

"You did, it's true," said Sir Percival Pork.

"Had we been awakened for food we would not have complained, but to be awakened by a lot of idle chatter, gracious, mercy, grunt, grunt, it is too much," said Grandfather Porky.

"The ways of the barnyard creatures are funny," said Sammy Sausage.

"Of course they are to you," said Mr. Rooster. "All you creatures think of is food. You think that any other conversations or talks are foolish."

"To be sure we do," said the pigs "We're sensible, greedy pigs, and the love and affection in our pig hearts is all turned in the direction of food—any direction where there is food!"

But at that moment appeared the animals' breakfast and the whole barnyard partook of the meal!

Fear for Safety Of Mine Head

Managua, Nicaragua, May 3 (AP)—With two American mines known to have been blown up by rebels, fears for the safety of the missing New Yorker who was at one of them increased today.

George B Marshall, assistant manager of the Luz Y Los Angeles mine, was said by Assistant Manager Johnson, to have been taken prisoner by the rebels on General Augustino Sandino's orders. He was sent to the insurgent leader's headquarters which was understood to be somewhere in the mountainous region of the department of Jinotega.

Johnson told a Marine officer at Prinzpolka he had heard that sixty rebels led by Jose Arrolika and Cecilio Gutierrez arrived at La Luz on April 24. They dynamited and they destroyed the mine, the mills and the machinery. Afterward they left for Boray.

A group of 50 rebels dynamited and destroyed the mills, tunnel and machinery at Bonanza mine on April 17. Afterwards they headed toward La Luz and Brigade headquarters believed that the same group destroyed both mines.

ALDERMAN O'REILLY WRITES OF BROADWAY CROSSING.

Kingston, N. Y., May 3, 1928.

Editor of Freeman, Freeman Square, City.

Dear Sir:

As Alderman of the Ninth Ward, it being one of the wards vitally interested in the elimination of the Broadway crossing, a hearing on which is to be held at the court house May 17th, and representing interests very much affected, I feel this matter should be given careful thought and considerable attention.

As I understand the situation, the city has formulated no plan, but, nevertheless, the citizens of this city are the ones mostly concerned with the matter. Under these circumstances I feel the committee appointed by the common council should before appearing at the hearing, get in touch with the various civic bodies such as the Chamber of Commerce, Women's Federation, Taxpayers, Central, Uptown and Downtown Associations and get a plan.

We have now zoning laws to beautify our city and I cannot understand why a monstrosity should be placed on such a beautiful thoroughfare as Broadway by an elevated railroad. Today one may stand at or near Andrew street and view Broadway from that point to Albany avenue or vice versa without an obstruction to their vision. What an ugly sight would be a pedestrian and vehicle tunnel? It would divide the city again into that spirit which I am told at one time prevailed between Downtown (Rondout) and Uptown (Kingston) an obstacle to the development of the city at large just about eradicated. It would cause the city to go backwards to generations gone by, but now happily forgotten.

Today in the central part of our city the finest structures are located. To mention only a few, there is the remodeled city hall, high school, Y. M. C. A., library, post office, Knights of Columbus building, the magnificent City of Kingston Hospital unit, the Benedictine Hospital, the American Legion, the armory and many other commercial and business establishments.

Strenuous objections should and must be presented to the commission opposing any plan but depressed tracks. Any other method would be abortive. I for one do not believe in going under but want to stay on top of the ground as long as possible.

It can easily be arranged to have a full and complete discussion by the above named bodies as to the advisibility of the action to be taken by the committee before the commission.

I would like to hear the views of others. Our city is now just advancing. Why go backwards? Let's all get together and pull one for all and all for one of the biggest, greatest and finest city on the Hudson.

Respectfully,
JAMES T. O'REILLY.

Trees in Holy Land

Dr. Henry Van Dyke in his book called "Out of Doors in the Holy Land" speaks of the olive, orange, cypress and eucalyptus trees. BLUE PRINTS

WHILE one of the highest and most costly buildings was being erected in Chicago, a miniature of the completed building, made of plaster of paris, rested upon a table in the office of the architect. In other words, the architect, having a definite plan according to which the structure was being built, had previously worked it into the plastic model. Without a definite blue print the building could never have been erected. Erecting a building without a plan is like trying to steer a ship without a rudder.

Many a career has met with disaster because of the lack of a dominating purpose and directing motive. A house built in the sand is bound to fall down. A character without definite ideals is most likely to be shattered. A picture of the career we have planned should always be given a large place in the imagination.

Blue prints are as essential to the building of one's life's career as they are to a building of stone or brick. One's career soon comes to naught in the absence of a definite plan. Many people make shipwreck of their careers because they allow themselves to be driven by any kind of caprice or opinion that happens to blow their way.

Fix your eye on your goal. Work out a blue print for your future. Construct your realized plan in the plaster of your imagination. See it already accomplished. The incentive to work will become many times greater and the dream will more likely become an actuality. We gradually become like what we constantly admire.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"FOR THE NONCE".

FREQUENTLY in modern writing and even in modern speech when it is of the flowery kind, we come across the phrase "for the nonce," meaning for the present, for this particular occasion.

The expression has an Old-world flavor and it is to olden times that we must go for its origin. It is one of the few almost literal survivals of the old Anglo-Saxon tongue which, though it is the father of our speech, is usually buried beyond recognition in the changed syllables which constitute modern English.

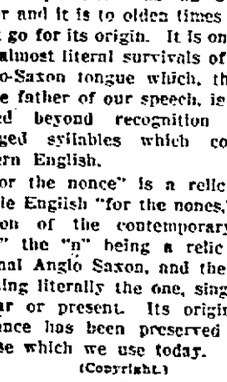

"For the nonce" is a relic of the Middle English "for the nones," a corruption of the contemporary "then ones," the "n" being a relic of the original Anglo Saxon, and the phrase meaning literally the one, single, particular or present. Its original significance has been preserved in the phrase which we use today.

"Candle" Coal?

Cannel coal burns with a bright, candle-like flame, and it is probable that the name is a corruption of candle coal. This coal is found in Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana, and some believe that it is a product of an accumulation of animal as well as plant remains. The same kind of coal is found in Scotland, where it is called parrot coal.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.

Cantilever
The Smart Shoe for Comfort

"PRINCESS"
Black Kid ...$11.00

WEARABLE all the day in comfort and supreme ease. This kid-skin pump gives very nearly the same support as an oxford. Three straps hold the foot securely in the right position: and the two decorative cut-outs lighten the appearance of this satisfactory, substantial shoe.

Every Cantilever Shoe is made with a flexible shank, so that the important foot muscles can gain strength through exercise, thus correcting or preventing weak arches and kindred ills. By keeping the foot well balanced and permitting it to function naturally, Cantilever Shoes enable you to go gaily through a busy day.

These new models fit perfectly at the heel: they hug the ankle: they fit the arch: and they provide room for the toes.

Come and see them.

Longendyke Host To Chandler Five

Leroy Longendyke of the Chandler automobile agency tendered a banquet to eight members of the Chandler basketball team and Coach Frank N. "Pop" Hinds, Y. M. C. A. physical director, at Von Berg's Restaurant Wednesday night. As a token of appreciation for the way the young men conducted themselves on the court during the past season Mr. Longendyke gave each Chandler player a gold basketball emblem to be worn on the lapel of his coat. They were presented by "Pop" Hinds, who also sports one on his lapel.

The Chandler players present at the banquet were Captain Kenneth "Red" Kennedy, Joe Hoffman, Joe Dulin, Joe Blass, Chet Fox, Vic Spalt, Hank Krum and Norm Niles. Although speech-making was barred at the affair these men were given to understand that their accomplishments during the past season were looked upon with great admiration. This collection of players owes much of its success to Coach Hinds, who is well thought of by the Chandlers. The team which traveled as far west as Cleveland last season will likely get an early start when the court gets under way for the winter months.

ROOSEVELT TO PRESENT COLORS TO TROOP 10

A large number of chairs have been placed and there will be seats for all in the armory on Friday night at 8:30 o'clock when Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will present the colors to Troop 10, American Legion Boy Scouts, and give an address to the members of the American Legion.

The public is cordially invited to attend. Admission will be free.

The Legion Drum Corps will escort Colonel Roosevelt from the Y. M. C. A. to the armory immediately following the father and son banquet at which the colonel will make the address.

All Legionnaires, Boy Scouts and citizens are invited to attend the exercises in the armory commencing at 8:30 o'clock.

Disapproves Girls' Athletics.

Rome, May 3 (AP).—Public athletic competition by girls is disapproved by Pope Pius. Saying that Rome today in its care of girls has fallen below the Rome of Pagan days, the Pontiff has sent an open letter to Cardinal Pompili, vicar of the Rome diocese, protesting against a gymnastic competition for young girls which was to have begun tomorrow. The Pontiff takes the ground that it is unseemly.

Famous Mural Artist Dead.

Washington, May 3 (AP).—Charles A. Whipple, 69 year old mural artist who for seven years has been engaged in retouching the famous Burmidi paintings at the Capitol, is dead here after an illness of several months. The body will be taken to Natick, Mass., today for funeral services at the home of a nephew, Lewis E. Whipple. Burial will be at Southboro, Mass.

Declines to Accept Honor.

Madison, Wis., May 3 (AP).—Miss Olga Rubinow of Philadelphia, Pa., has declined election to Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic society, because she believed high grades are not "a genuine criterion of true scholarship and intellectual achievement."

Business Girls Elect Officers

The annual meeting of the Business Girls' Club of the Y. W. C. A. was held in connection with the Wednesday night supper at the Y. W. C. A. Wednesday evening and was very interesting. It was learned that for the past year there has been an average attendance of about fifty girls at the weekly Wednesday night suppers which is indeed proof of interest. The President, Miss Dorothy Kennedy presided and Miss Priscilla Davis acted as secretary pro tem.

There were excellent and inspiring reports given by Miss Matilda Martin the treasurer; Miss Alma Tyler, chairman of the Program Committee; Miss Millard, chairman of the Social Service Committee; Miss Messinger, chairman of the Membership Committee in which it was stated that the Club now numbers fifty-one paid-up members.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Miss Mildred Messinger; vice president, Miss Ruth Bell; secretary, Miss Eva Rand; treasurer, Miss Eva Shook. Delegates chosen to attend the Business Girls' Conference at Maqua from August 18 to September 1, were Miss Ruth Bell and Miss Eva Shook, with Miss Eva Rand as alternate. It is expected that more girls will go.

Two amendments to their constitution were considered by the Club members, one in reference to dues and the payment thereof; the other regarding the necessary quota at business sessions.

Announcements were made to the effect that this evening The Young Married Women will give a dance at the Y. W. C. A., and it was stated that the Gym would be most attractively decorated for this social event.

On the evening of Wednesday, May 16, the Business Girls' Club will hold a card party at the Gym, the proceeds to go toward paying the expenses of the delegates to Maqua, and the girls are hoping for a generous patronage of this party.

On Friday evening, May 11, The Schubert Choral Club will give a complimentary concert at the High School when they will present as their soloist, Dan Gridley, tenor, and Miss Usher well known to Kingston audiences will come as accompanist.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY NEW YORK STATE MASONS

Some Sea Facts

Drifting Icebergs Mark Out the Labrador Coast.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

ALTHOUGH it may be true that the principal ship lanes of the ocean are almost as definitely traveled and marked as a Lincoln highway or a Long Island boulevard, our knowledge of the bounding main is only fragmentary.

To begin with, the area of the sea is about three times as large as that of the land. Although as long ago as 1904 the governments of the civilized world had got together some 25,000,000 observations of every kind and sort from the logs of merchantmen, warships, and government vessels, and although the results of a single expedition have filled over 50 massive quarto volumes, what we know about the sea is but the primer of the things it has to reveal.

The most impressive thing about the sea is its shallowness as compared with the size of the earth, and its depth as compared with the height of the land. If you were to take a globe six feet in diameter and excavate the deepest trench of the ocean thereon, it would be a bare pin scratch deep—about one-twentieth of an inch. And yet so profound are the depths of the sea that the bulk of the water in it is 15 times as great as the bulk of the land that rises above its waves. In its deepest trench the tallest mountain on the face of the globe could be buried and ships could still pass over the spot with a half mile of water under them.

The average depth of the ocean is more than two miles—about 12,480 feet, the oceanographers estimate. On the other hand, the average height of the land is less than half a mile—about 2,250 feet. How much further beneath the waves the sea bottom lies than the land crest above them is shown by the fact that while only 1 per cent of the land rises to an altitude of 12,000 feet, 46 per cent of the ocean's floor lies under more than 12,000 feet of water.

The relative height of the land surface and the sea bottom is about in keeping with their relative areas, there being 71 acres occupied by the sea for every 29 held by the land. If it were possible to drain off the upper 10,000 feet of the waters of the sea and to lay bare the floor that lies under it, the territory thus recovered, added to the land now above the sea, would give only a fifty-fifty division between land and water.

Broad Continental Shelf.

The oceans as we know them are larger than the true ocean basis. As a monument is always planted on a base, so the continents have broad under-sea bases upon which to rest. To the oceanographers there is a line known as the 100-fathom line, which largely parallels the shore line, but which is sometimes as much as several hundred miles out to sea. When that line is reached the bottom suddenly begins to slope down toward the abysmal depths.

The floor lying landward from this line is known as the continental shelf, and it is upon this broad shelf, with an aggregate area three times as large as that of the United States, that the continents are planted. By overflowing this vast area of slightly submerged territory, the oceans gather unto themselves 10,000,000 square miles of territory that in elevation belongs more to the land than to the sea.

As a matter of fact, the continental shelf lies in part under water and in part above, the part above being the alluvial plains of the continents. Where these plains are broad the shelf usually is broad, and where they are narrow the shelf is usually narrow. For instance, the plain on our Atlantic coast is broad, and there is a corresponding breadth to the continental shelf. On the Pacific coast the alluvial plain is very narrow, and the 100-fathom line is correspondingly close to shore.

From a practical standpoint, the part of the sea of most immediate interest to man is that which rests upon the continental shelf. Here are situated all the seaboard cities. Wherever the ocean lanes may meander up and down the briny deep, they begin on the continental shelf and end there. But for that shelf there would be no bays or gulfs, no harbors and no havens, for the boundaries of the true ocean basins are infinitely more regular and less indented than the shorelines. Ocean-bound commerce would be vastly inconvenienced if it had to dispense with all the advantages that the continental shelf brings to it.

Sea Food an Important Question.

A matter that seems destined to occupy a larger place in oceanographic research is the question of sea food. The World war demonstrated how close is the margin between food production and food consumption, and how much more pressing the food question is destined to grow in the years of peace and racial expansion that lie ahead.

The oceans literally teem with food. The man who declared that humanity is a race of herring-catchers might have overstated the case, but that the sea abounds in food fishes and fishes fit for food is well known. As soon as we begin to study the subject of ocean fisheries, however, we come up short against the fact that what we really know about the inhabitants of the sea is startlingly limited.

Another phase of oceanography that will demand and receive close attention in the years to come is the ocean currents. The effect of these great rivers of the sea upon the welfare of the human race is past imagination. It is said that the Gulf stream carries enough heat toward Europe every 24 hours to melt a mass of iron as large as Mount Washington.

Rear Admiral Pillsbury, describing this remarkable river of the sea, says that every hour there passes through the straits of Florida the enormous total of 90,000,000,000 tons of water, carrying enough salt to load many times over every ship that sails the main. Through these straits the stream is 40 miles wide. It carries more water than all the streams of the world bring down from the land to the sea.

In each of the four quarters of the globe there is a wonderful circulatory system—the heavy, cold waters of the polar seas rushing equatorward, and the light, warm waters of tropic oceans sweeping back, giving a huge swirl not unlike the motion of water driven around the bottom of a basin by the hand.

Puzzle of the Ocean Currents.

Vessels and debris caught in these currents often play uncanny tricks. In 1905 the Stanley Dollar, an American freighter, went upon the rocks at the entrance to Yokohama bay. Her life-preservers were washed out as she lay upon the beach upon which she was run to prevent her sinking.

In 1911 two of her life-preservers were picked up on the shores of the Shetland islands, north of Scotland. How they reached there is one of the puzzling questions that so often arise anent the sea. Did they sweep up the Asiatic coast, through Behring strait, and then through the Northwest Passage and Baffin bay, and thence by Iceland to the Shetland islands? Or did they, after floating through the Northwest Passage, get into the Polar current and sweep down the Atlantic to the point where that ocean river dives under the Gulf stream, to be picked up there by the latter current and carried to the Shetland islands?

It has often been urged that the American Indian came to the shores of the New world an unwilling voyager on the bosom of the Japan current. Certain it is that all of these vast rivers of the ocean have played an incalculably important role in the affairs of the human race, and that a more exhaustive study of them than has been made holds many revelations in store.

One of the questions that is often asked is whether a ship, sinking in deep water, goes to the bottom, or whether she finds her level in some vertical depth zone and drifts on forever. This question sprang into great prominence when the Titanic went down, and was asked frequently during the World war. The answer is, she goes directly to the bottom, else how could a dredge or a trawl be sent down five miles.

One of the strange things that happen when ships sink is that implosions occur. These are inward burstings, often with a force as tremendous as the outward bursting caused by explosions of gunpowder. As the ship sinks into deep water, air chambers that do not fill up are burst inward with a force proportionate to their resistance. If there be corked bottles in the stores that are not entirely full, the corks are driven in or the bottles burst.

With what force these implosions occur may be gathered from an experience of a scientific expedition. A thermometer was let down into very deep water, wrapped in protecting cloth. When the line was drawn up the cloth contained no thermometer, instead it contained a lot of impalpable white stuff resembling snow. The implosion had not shivered the thermometer into the proverbial thousand pieces, it had simply transformed it into dust. Wood sent to the bottom of the deep places of the ocean has its very cells invaded and crushed and loses its buoyancy.

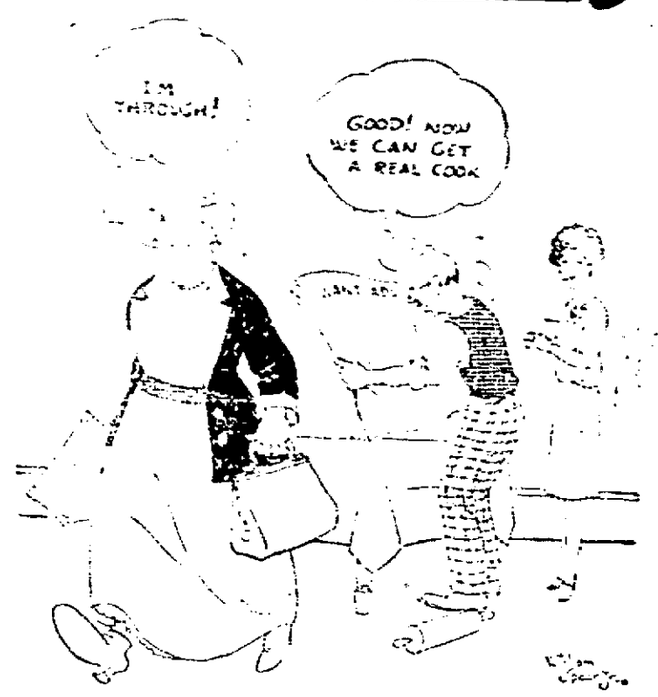

Reminder

A lady ran away from her husband and went to live in a hotel. After several days she went back to him. She said she couldn't stand looking at the sign on the door every time she went out; it troubled her conscience. The sign was: "Think; have you left anything?"—Vancouver Province.

Highest Form of Laces

Church laces are usually the finest examples of lace making which artists can design and fingers execute. Much of the finest lace has been made by nuns in convents. Venetian points are considered the most beautiful and elaborate laces known, made entirely with the needle.

REDEEMER LUTHERAN CHURCH ACTIVITIES.

The Rev. O. E. Brandorff, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, will preach a series of sermons for the next few Sunday evening services on modern problems as follows: Sunday, May 6, 7:30 p. m., "What Jesus Taught About Marriage." The other sermons of the series are: "What Jesus Taught About Divorce", "What Jesus Taught About Riches", "What Jesus Taught About Sunday", "What Jesus Taught About Pleasure".

The Men's Club will cooperate with the Ladies' Aid and Mission Society in holding a picnic at Forsyth Park on the afternoon of Memorial Day.

Trout Fry Do Not Migrate

Trout fry, according to an expert on fish culture, have a tendency to stay near the point where they are planted in a stream, says Gas Logic.

Free Camping and Parking.

John H. Walton has opened to the public a free camping and parking acreage on Lucas avenue, about three miles from Kingston. There is a beautiful grove of pine trees covering ten acres and it is an ideal outing place. The Walton farm is well known to older residents of this city and vicinity but has been closed to the public for some time. Tourists and motorists are welcome. A large pavilion has been erected which will be opened on and after Decoration Day.

Unusual Antiques at Mrs. Fromer's.

Besides the usual mahogany pieces, picture mirrors, hook rugs, glassware, etc., etc., many of them very desirable, Mrs. C. Budington Fromer of 61 Albany avenue, has in her antique shop some very rare Mission Love seats, an Empire day bed with stencil decorations and a tavern table, that have a particular interest at this season of the year for summer homes.

Bear Returns to Golden Rule Inn

Betty, the pet bear that strolled away from her den at Golden Rule Inn on Mohonk Lake, Ulster Park, about four weeks ago, is again secure in her cage after a month's liberty. She returned to the Inn about 11 o'clock Wednesday night for the second time since her departure and was coaxed by a pan of milk in the hands of the proprietor to enter her cage.

On his way to the garage Wednesday night the proprietor of Golden Rule came face to face with Betty just outside the kitchen door. He went back into the kitchen and got a pan of milk, a delicacy to the bear, and with it coaxed her into the cage a short distance from the Inn. The visit of Betty to the Inn on Wednesday was not as happy for her as the one made Monday night of this week when she entered the kitchen and stole from the ice boxes.

During Betty's period of liberty she was seen several times by motorists within a half-mile of Golden Rule Inn on the state road. She crossed the thoroughfare several times at night, when headlights on cars confused her and she took to the trees.

Extra precaution will be taken in keeping Betty in her cage for the delight of summer guests during the coming summer season for the animal proves quite an attraction to adults as well as children. The tame bear was allowed her freedom to exercise after hibernating since Christmas and strolled away when her keeper left her playing with an airdale dog, while he went into the Inn for a short time.

Odds and Ends

The ladies of St. John's Church will hold a cafeteria supper in the parish house Thursday evening, May 10.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Fair Street Reformed Church will hold their annual fair and turkey dinner on Election night, November 6. The following night a chicken salad supper will be served.

The King's Daughters' Sunday school class of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church will attend the funeral of Walter De Graff to be held at his late residence, 51 Van Deusen street, Friday at 1 p. m. They will meet at the home of Mrs. Hicks, 45 Van Deusen street, whence they will proceed in a body.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church will hold its regular monthly meeting Friday afternoon at three o'clock at the home of Mrs. Charles P. Ashley, 247 Pearl street. The program will be as follows: Devotions, Mrs. M. S. Safford; book review, "The Christ of the Indian Road," Mrs. H. R. Brigham; Biography of Marilla B. Ingalls, Who Won One Hundred Buddhist Priests to Christ, Miss Lillian M. Healy; short story, Mrs. G. A. Flemings.

Cotton in Auto Tires

Most motorists know of the important part that cotton plays in the sturdy carcass of an automobile tire. But it is not generally known that cotton fiber of length required for tire cords is raised in only two similar but widely separated areas. The delta regions of the Mississippi river, in this country, and of the Nile river in Egypt, produce almost all the cotton for the highest grade tires.

New Fabrics Are Liked for Spring

Gay Weaves Lead on Fashion List—Rayon Is Favored for Season.

The achievement of the year in dress is the offering of new fabrics. The movement toward this goal has long been under way and each season's collection of styles has brought out fresh novelties in weave, texture and color. In the latest costumes this year, observes a fashion writer in the New York Times, every type of material has its lining. At the moment rayon, as we call it, or artificial silk as it is to the Parisian, holds the center of attention. The sports frock, for example, which has appeared in wool, lame, silk, cotton or linen, is shown by the leading designers also in rayon, and the latest collections have included an interesting assortment of other costumes following the sports models in which rayon of different kinds is used.

A charming example of the up-to-the-minute fashion comes from the atelier of Lanvin. It is made all in one key, the popular Lanvin green of rayon and silk flat crepe, and consists of a two-piece frock and a three-quarter-length coat. The blouse and skirt, apparently separate, are really attached after the fashion of many of the new ensembles. Two shades of green are alternated in it in a sharply contrasting scheme in geometric lines. The coat is simplicity itself. It is in the darker shade of green rayon crepe, and is lined with a lighter shade that blends softly.

This model is one of the many that illustrate the de luxe sports ensembles. They all have a somewhat theatrical appearance, because of this being made of materials that have been thought too fine for such use, such as the lustrous crepes and satins and even chiffons, all of which belong traditionally to a more elaborate type.

The Use of Rayon.

Rayon is being used enthusiastically by Jane Regny in a number of tennis dresses of white, the material being a weighty, supple crepe that lends itself well to tailoring and to plaits that keep their shape. This model is liked by other Parisians also, who are making it in flannel, kasha, crepe and linen for summer sports. Regny offers in her latest collection two other chic models. One is a two-piece of brown rayon crepe gitania trimmed with tailored bows. Another is of marigold yellow rayon trimmed in cire braid of the same glowing shade of yellow.

An exotic example of the rayon sports dress is one from Chanel in which the impossible in dressmaking is shown. This is a tailored sports frock of poppy-red velvet, youthful and chic. This success in making sports frocks of rayon, also, is duplicated in countless other types of dress for every occasion, which are shown by prominent couturiers of both Paris and of New York.

In the present in-between season women and their dressmakers are equally interested in selecting models in which the summer mode is anticipated.

Tennis Dress by Jane Regny, Made in Rayon and Silk.

Suits, frocks and wraps designed for spring sports and general wear are being shown in a new variant of tweed. It is one woven in serviceable dark colors flecked with white.

Some of the latest models from Worth are made of this material. It is shown in one suit of dark blue and white which consists of a long, straight coat with a scarf attached to the neck in lieu of a collar, the scarf being fitted to throw over the shoulder or fasten closely about the throat. The skirt is cut with a slight flare in front and the blouse is made of fine jersey in a darker shade of solid blue with a binding of white at the neck and another touch of white in a little ship embroidered in floss at the left side near the belt.

This white-flecked fabric is especially effective in tweed when the principal color is black, as is seen in a new model of a long cape. In this a deep yoke is formed by vertical tucks around the top, which fit closely over the shoulders, and on each side a similar panel is stitched half way down the arm. It has a tailored mannish collar of black satin with revers, which is faced with white.

A detail in the ensemble scheme is shown in some large envelope bags made of the same tweed texture. They are new in design, being made to close with a wide band of leather drawn around the bag and through a gold ring. There has been an immediate response to this novelty, which comes, according to the color of the costume, in blue, black or green with the white fleck showing.

Black-and-White Combinations.

As the season advances the black-and-white combination becomes more popular and appears in costumes for every occasion. This is shown in some striking suits of jersey in which the color combinations are in geometric patterns. Oblique lines and deep points are used to outline the design sharply.

In a cardigan sports suit of the new rayon and wool fabric crepe three tones of blue are skillfully assembled. A fine wool and rayon jersey of black very minutely flecked with white is made with a skirt that is box-plaited in clusters and an overblouse, in which the top is cut in a deep-pointed yoke and the long sleeves are made of white crepe. Sections of gray crepe are inserted with the black, forming triple points from the neck to the bottom of the blouse, which is hip-length and is belted with a narrow strip of patent leather.

Three-Piece of Worsted Yarn and Rayon Is Popular.

Another style of sports frock which is suitable for almost any daytime occasion is made of flat crepe. Both skirt and jumper are laid in small side plaits, across which are stitched narrow bands of cloth. More summery dresses, and thoroughly up-to-date ones in their ways of combining figured and plain materials, are made of crepe de chine or one of the several new silks, printed in small patterns in several different colors together. On these bands of plain crepe in the predominating color of the print are added, some in square, some in straight lines closely spaced and some in the newer treatment of oblique lines.

Frocks of this type are also using the small patterned materials which are considered very chic. A crepe printed in a prim little conventionalized flower design appears in three colors, red, green and yellow on a black ground, the pattern suggesting an old-fashioned calico.

Polka Dots Fashionable.

Polka dots are very fashionable in all the lighter materials, all of the new designs having an irregular arrangement, and some having dots of different sizes in clusters that give a shaded appearance to the surface. These are dainty and chic. In the prints of two colors, the blues and greens are cool and fresh for summer frocks.

Flowered chiffons and laces are rivals for favor in the mode for summer, the former, which had a pronounced success last season, coming back now in greater variety of design and in enchanting colors. In these both large and small patterns are good. All of them are softly graceful and feminine in tone.

Chiffon combined with lace is shown by some well-known designers, especially colored chiffons in solid colors and in prints with inserts and trimmings of lace. A handsome evening gown of white taffeta is veiled with white chiffon, with inserted motifs of black chantilly lace. A model in black chiffon is made with a skirt that is gathered in a double flounce around the hips and cut in fluttering points at the edge, giving a charming effect as its wearer moves. This gown has a straight bodice in which chantilly lace is set in in latticed lines. It is decollete and sleeveless, and a narrow scarf of the fine lace is attached to the top of the left shoulder.

Magnetic Fields

The bureau of standards says that magnetic lines of force are not electric currents. Imaginary lines are used to aid in depicting the direction and intensity of the magnetic field, which is a condition in space and not a flow of anything.

Attica Site for New State Prison

Albany, May 3 (AP).—The village of Attica was named as the most satisfactory site for the proposed new state prison in a report submitted today to Governor Smith as head of the state building sites committee by a sub-committee from the State Department of Correction.

The report recommended the purchase of the Attica site on the ground that it was the most suitable of a number of possible sites investigated by the sub-committee.

Quiz Candidates On Expenditures

Washington, May 3 (AP).—All Presidential candidates are to be asked to appear before the special Senate committee named to inquire into campaign expenditures.

The committee dispatched telegrams today to all the candidates asking them to testify at their convenience and also to name their agents who could report on expenditures.

Chairman Steiwer believes a start on the investigation ordered by the Senate may be made by next Monday in view of the fact that many of the candidates already are in Washington.

Quizzing of the candidates themselves is a new procedure in this kind of an investigation.

FIRST DUTCH WOMEN'S BANQUET SATURDAY

The annual banquet of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Dutch Church will be held Saturday noon at the Hotel Stuyvesant. No regular speaker will be had but Mrs. Walter Steiner will be toastmaster and she is arranging a humorous and pleasing program. There are still a few tickets to be had and they must be engaged by tonight, so the committee can notify the hotel management how many will attend. The usual turkey dinner will be served and a very enjoyable time is promised. All ladies born in 1880 to 1890 are particularly invited. Mrs. Hewitt Boice has charge of the dining room and will be glad to assign special seats for those who would miss the program if they were too far from the speakers table.

NEIGHBORHOOD SERVICE AT ST. PAUL CHURCH

The concluding service of the week's dedicatory services at St. Paul Lutheran Church will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock. To this service the neighbors and friends of the church have been particularly invited. There will be special music. The speaker will be the Rev. Frank Jena of New York. His message will treat of the glory of the church, her unique position and her God-given message. Dr. Jena left the business world and entered the Gospel ministry and this message will present this subject in the light of a personal experience and conviction.

Formation of Petroleum

The geological survey says that the organic theory of the origin of petroleum is most generally accepted. Crude petroleum of paraffin base is believed to be formed of vegetable debris and petroleum of asphaltic base is believed to be formed of organic matter containing a large proportion of animal matter. Substantially the same products are obtained from petroleum of either base, except asphalt, which is obtained from asphaltic petroleum only, and paraffin wax, which is obtained from paraffinaceous petroleum. Paraffinaceous petroleum contains a larger proportion of kerosene, gasoline and other high-gravity products than asphaltic petroleum.

Plant Calories

Jack's mother is ultramodern and the young lad is quite familiar with the lore of calories.

The son was accompanying his mother on a shopping tour to the city. As they were making preparations to leave home, mother said: "Jack, don't let me forget the plant food today. Our house plants are looking like spindleshanks."

The bus was nearing the business section of the city. The dependable lad spied a seed store and said: "Mother, we better get off here. There is a place where you can get your calories for the house plants." —Indianapolis News.

Supreme Salesmanship

The traveler in educational books approached a business man.

"So you want to sell me some books, do you?"

"Yes," said the book traveler.

"Well," said the man of business, "I have no words in which to express my contempt for a man who has nothing better to do than travel in books."

"Then," replied the traveler, "allow me to sell you one of our dictionaries. It contains 50,000 words in which you can express your contempt."—"Regina Leader.

Made a Bad Trade

The poet Heinie's sense of humor must have been a great boon to him through all his disappointments and ill health. After months of paralysis and blindness, he said one day to a visitor, records Lewis Browne in "That Man Heinie":

"Ah, you find me now utterly stupid!"

"Ill, you mean," the other suggested.

"No stupid," the invalid insisted. "You see, Alexandre Weill was just here, and we exchanged ideas!"

Brundage-Hubler.

Arthur Brundage and Dorothy Hubler, both of Otisville, Orange county, N. Y., were united in marriage at Phoenicia Sunday, April 29, by the Rev. Dow B. MacBain, pastor of the M. E. Church.

Haynes-Lamb.

A pretty wedding took place Monday afternoon when Miss Gertrude Lamb of 17 Clinton avenue and Judson L. Haynes were united in marriage by the Rev. Father Burke of St. Joseph's Church. The bride was charmingly gowned in white georgette with picture hat to match and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Her attendant was Miss Mary Lamb, sister of the bride, who was gowned in rose pink georgette, with picture hat to match and carried a bouquet of pink roses. John Lamb, brother of the bride, acted as best man. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. After a bountiful reception at the home of the bride the newly married couple departed for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and other points of interest. Upon their return a newly furnished home awaits them.

Ford Company To Finance Sales

Detroit, Mich., May 3 (AP).—Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, today announced organization of the Universal Credit Corporation, an affiliated organization controlled by the Ford Company, to operate solely for the purpose of financing Ford products on a time payment plan. It will have an initial capital of $10,000,000.

An announcement of the details concerning the organization confirmed previous reports that the Ford Company planned to finance Ford products sold by dealers on a time payment basis.

The plan, Ford announced, is nationwide in scope and is for the exclusive use of Ford dealers. The first branch unit will be established in Detroit in June.

About the Folks

Mrs. M. J. Howard of 9 New street has gone to New York city to spend the week end with her son, Joseph Howard.

Leroy Horton of Port Ewen, who was operated upon at the City of Kingston Hospital some time ago, has sufficiently recovered to return to his taxi business.

Doris E. Schryver, daughter of Mrs. V. A. Schryver of 460 Albany avenue, who was operated upon at the Benedictine Hospital Saturday, is satisfactorily recovering under the care of Dr. Sibley.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard A. Johnson of 58 North Front street, which weighed nine pounds and eleven ounces, at the Benedictine Hospital on Wednesday. Mr. Johnson is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Johnson of 65 Hurley avenue, and this is the first grandchild.

STAY IN INCREASED FARE MUST GO BEFORE COURT.

Washington, May 3 (AP).—It was indicated at the Supreme court that the city of New York would have to go before the Supreme court on May 14 to obtain a stay in the increase in Interborough Transit rates granted yesterday by the lower courts.

Counsel for the New York State Transit Commission came here today to appeal to Justice Stone, of the Supreme court, for a stay of the temporary increase of Interborough car fares to seven cents pending the fixing of a permanent rate.

Earliest Railroad Tunnel

The first railroad tunnel was the Woodhead tunnel, in England, which was begun in the spring of 1839. The first train passed through December 2, 1845. This was over what was known as the Manchester, Sheffield & Lincolnshire railway, now the Great Central division of the London & Northeastern railway.

Methodists Look To Younger Men

Bishops Recommend That Full Advantage Be Taken of Chance to Assign Responsibilities to Younger Members.

Kansas City, May 3 (AP). Bearing out forecasts that conservatism would be the keynote of the quadrennial General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church here by blocking the first attempt for formal discussion of Fundamentalism and Modernism, delegates today turned to surveys looking to extension of world activities.

While the Rev. Paul Sloan of Haddonfield, N. J., said he would continue his efforts to start an investigation of what he termed the advance of modernism in many church fields, delegates generally viewed the issue was closed as far as the Conference here is concerned. Several bishops and ministerial delegates pointed to yesterday's vote of almost ten to one against consideration of this issue, which resulted when Mr. Sloan, an avowed Fundamentalist, introduced a resolution proposing such an inquiry, as an indication of the conference stand on this question.

After listening to the Episcopal address, prepared by the 44 bishops of the church to show the scope of Methodist activities during the last four years, the various committees started to perfect their organizations and to consider reports on a variety of subjects.

The bishops, without voice or vote in formal Conference discussions, in addition to holding possibility of a world union of Christian churches beyond consideration at present, along with discussion of other world questions, recommended that full advantage be taken of the chance to assign responsibilities to younger members of the church.

P.-T. A. SCHOOL NO. 5 ACTIVITIES REPORTED

The regular monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of School 5 was held Tuesday afternoon. About 35 members were present. Two classes were not represented by teacher or parent.

After the regular business the president, Mrs. Lockwood, gave a report of the institute conducted by Mrs. Roe, National Field secretary, which meeting was held in Newburgh April 17.

A general invitation was extended to members to attend the Spring Conference to be held in the High School May 12, morning session beginning at 10 o'clock (daylight saving time).

Mrs. Whitney has arranged to hold a "bake sale" at Rose-Gorman's store May 12, 2 p. m. Members are requested to donate.

A card party will be held at the home of Mrs. William Eberth, 44 Foxhall avenue, May 11 at 2 p. m. Benefit of relief fund.

A brief resume of work done by the association from September, 1927, to date, includes:

Buying first aid cabinet for school, supplying shoes and clothing for needy children. A box of candy for each child in the school for Christmas. Celebrated Founder's Day and donated $5 for Child Welfare Work; $5 to part-time school sewing class; donation to Students' Loan Fund; flowers for sick members; $5 for Near East Relief Fund; purchased a P.-T. A. banner which is left for a month in room having most mothers present at the monthly meeting; raising $150 for stereopticon slides for geography classes in the school; had speakers at meetings, explaining various privileges of school and county agencies.

The next meeting will be held June 5.

Lindbergh Will Learn Navigation

Accompanied by Lieutenant Commander P. V. H. Weems of the United States Navy, who has been assigned to teach him how to plot a course by astronomical observation, the flying colonel landed at Curtiss Field yesterday after a flight from Washington in his new Ryan cabin monoplane. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robertson of St. Louis also were passengers.

Navigators and fliers expressed wonder last summer when it was learned how close Lindbergh had come to "hitting the mark" in navigating his "Spirit of St. Louis" across the Atlantic by dead reckoning. He admitted he had little knowledge of navigation by the generally accepted means of astronomical observations.

Since his flight to Europe he has had little need of such knowledge as most of his flights have been over land or short hops over water, such as he made in flying from Caracas, Venezuela, to Saint Thomas in the Virgin Islands, on his Good Will Tour of the Carribean countries.

After landing at Curtiss Field Lindbergh and the Naval officer entered an automobile and left for an unannounced destination. The other two passengers came to a New York hotel.

Hotel Maid Gets $50 Reward by Wireless

New York.—Annie Murphy, a chambermaid on the sixth floor of the Waldorf, received a $50 tip by wireless. It was the gift of Senora Diego Gomez, widow of a wealthy Spaniard who left the hotel for Seville, sailing on the Manuel Arnus.

In her haste to depart Senora Gomez left a jeweled lavalliere at the hotel. Soon after the steamship left New York she wirelessed Jesse Ungar of 53 Park place, saying that she had left the lavalliere in the Waldorf safe.

Mr. Ungar found it at the Waldorf, but it was explained to him that the senora had not left it in the safe. Instead, she had forgotten it in a heap of paper boxes and packing in her room, where Miss Murphy had found it and turned it over to the lost-and-found department of the hotel.

When Mr. Ungar had acquainted the senora with these facts she directed him to pay the reward. It is recalled that a day or two before her departure the senora forgot valuables and cash amounting to $350 in a taxicab. These were recovered by the police.

FORT ON WHEELS FOR AN ARABIAN KING

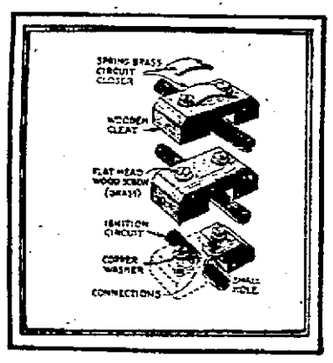

The photograph shows a head-on view of the luxurious motor car recently built for the king of the Hedjaz and which will be used chiefly for trips across the African deserts. The car resembles a fort on wheels and is equipped with two stands for armed sentries. There are five powerful searchlights and two horns to warn camel drivers of the king's approach. The machine was built at Bromley at an estimated cost of $15,000.

Inspection of Cars

Motorists are finding it a costly proposition to assume that it is not worth while to get out of the car and look for possible damage after a minor collision. Many have driven away in such cases only to find relatively severe damage that they were certain could not have resulted. A recent case illustrates this. A motorist who was stopped to allow cross-traffic to pass was backed into by another car. He started away, assuming that the other car had struck only his bumper. When later he inspected the damage he found a fender crumpled almost beyond repair.

Novel Secret Ignition Switch Easy to Conceal

The value of any secret ignition switch depends on how cleverly it is concealed. The switch shown in the illustration is so constructed that it doesn't look like a switch and can be placed in plain sight if necessary. No one would suspect the wire cleat of harboring a concealed break in the wiring. The cleat can be cut from any piece of hardwood. Drill the holes for the two screws and carve a groove for each wire end from the center notch to the screw hole. Then enlarge the screw holes just enough so that small loops can be turned in the ends of the wires and placed in these holes. Use flathead wood screws with copper washers and figure out the size of the enlargement at the bottom of each hole so that when the screw is forced down tight, each wire end will be jammed between the side of the hole and the screw so as to get a good electrical contact. A piece of spring brass cut to snap under the edges of the flathead screws will complete the connection between the wire ends. Of course round-headed screws would ordinarily be used, but anyone noticing the flathead screws is most unlikely to attach particular significance to them. If you install this switch in an old car, dirty the cleat to make it look old.

The Particular Merit of This Secret Switch Is That It Need Not Be Hidden From View. It Does Not Look the Part.

Several convenient locations for the concealed switch will suggest themselves. Check up the location of the wire running from the timer to the dash switch and then choose the easiest location to get at.—Popular Science Monthly.

AUTOMOBILE ITEMS

When a woman occasionally does take a back seat, she drives the automobile from it.

As soon as this automobile war is over, we're going to try to get a pension for our old veteran.

If all these new cars get the mileage promised by their makers, it will be a tough break for the gas industry.

* * *

About 8,000 miles of concrete road way are to be built throughout the country this year, according to transportation experts.

A pneumatic automobile bumper has just been placed on the market, and the only thing now needed to make the joys of motoring complete is a pneumatic telephone pole.

English Highways

In English history, the highway was designated as the main public road which was the subject of special royal enactments controlling the policing of it. It was, therefore, popularly referred to as the "King's" or "Queen's" highway.

BREAKING IN THE NEW AUTOMOBILE

First 500 Miles Has Important Bearing on Kind of Future Service.

"The first 500 miles or so is the most important period in the life of a new automobile, and the manner in which the car is driven at that stage determines to a large extent the kind of future service it will give.

"The parts of a new car are carefully and accurately made, but just as a pair of new shoes must be 'bro en in' before fitting comfortably, so these new parts must also be adjusted in order to function properly.

"High points on the bearing must be smoothed out, tool and grinding marks gradually worn away, a high polish acquired."

Expert Advice.

This is the statement of David Gregg, research engineer, who proceeds to give some expert advice about breaking in new automobiles.

To quote Gregg in part:

"First, follow explicitly the manufacturer's directions for the 'breaking in' period, which usually is 500 miles. After this period, and when the engine is warm, occasionally accelerate up to 40 or 45 miles an hour. Immediately the speedometer registers 40 or 45 slow down to around 35 miles an hour. This enables the oil to circulate freely among the moving parts.

"The short bursts of speed permit the parts to become accomodated to full load operation without danger of burning or sticking, which might occur with continued high speed running.

Complete Check.

"At the end of the first 1,000 miles the car should be driven back to the dealer for a complete check. See that the valve adjustment is correct, the compression even in all cylinders, the distributor contact points checked. The operation of the steering gear and alignment of the front wheels should be checked, and be sure the nuts which hold the wheels on the rear axle are tight and without sign of looseness.

"A car properly broken in and regularly checked at a good service station should give many thousands of miles of carefree operation at a minimum of expense."

Increase Shown in Auto Deaths During Last Year

Automobile fatalities in the United States last year increased more than 1,500 over 1926, the National Safety council estimates from partial reports of cities and states.

In 1926 deaths charged to automobiles aggregated 23,500.

Of the nation's eight leading cities four, Philadelphia, Cleveland, St. Louis and Boston, reported fewer deaths. Chicago, Detroit and Los Angeles show increases. New York is not mentioned in the council's incomplete survey.

Massachusetts again reports a reduction over the 1926 record. All of the cities in that state over 100,000 population, with the exception of Cambridge, reported decreases.

Connecticut, New York, Rhode Island and Texas were among states showing increases in deaths. In New York the death list jumped from 1,155 in 1926 to 2,422 last year.

Reduction of Number of Valve-Grinding Tasks

Widespread use of highly volatile, nondetonating gasolines is resulting in a great reduction of the number of valve-grinding jobs that the average repair shop does. This is to be expected and for the most part is entirely satisfactory. But it happens frequently that the car owner goes too far with the assumption that the valves are seating properly.

Even with the best of gasolines the valves do "stick up" after a certain period of usage. The car owner who grinds in the valves or has them ground in after, say, a year of service will recognize this by the difference in the car's performance.

Not Visible to All

The north or pole star is visible from the earth only in the Northern hemisphere. To people living north of the equator the pole star never sets. Persons any considerable distance south of the equator cannot see the north star.
